Bonacic: DEP Shows Arrogance on Response to UC Concerns-1.5 Billion

Over 20 Years = $9.38 a year for water per person

State Senator John Bonacic (R/C/I - Mt. Hope), blasted the DEP staff for their "arrogance and ignorance". DEP staff attacked an Ulster County official yesterday, County Executive Michael Hein, for simply inviting Mayor Bloomberg to come to Ulster County. "The Mayor is a business person and a pretty sensible guy person and a pretty sensible guy. He can jet off to Bermuda for a weekend because of his brilliant business success. It is hardly unreasonable to ask him to drive 90 miles to see the chocolate milk-like water his DEP has turned the Esopus creek into," Bonacic said. (Contd. Pg. 13)

What's New at the Time and the Valleys Museum?

Dave Forshay, who has volunteered many hours of labor shares a proud moment with his two young buddies as they enjoy the interactive diorama at the museum. The diorama was designed and created by Barbara Purcell and the custom cabinet was built by Dave.

While the Time and the Valleys Museum may be closed for the winter and the memories of visiting the museum last summer are now history, plans for a few new exhibits, including a replica of one of the tunnels is now coming to fruition. Barbara Purcell has put her creative talents to use once again and with the help of several volunteers is building a tunnel that will eventually serve as an entrance way into the museum. (Contd. Catskill Streams Buffer Initiative Accepting

Applications in January and June 2012
Tropical Storm Irene was the flood of record in our region and has dramatically altered the streamside landscape. Severe bank erosion from this flood has removed acres of mature trees, and in doing so has also taken with it the benefits of a forested streamside buffer in many areas. A well-vegetated and healthy riparian buffer can be the first step in reducing erosion, eradicating invasive species, improving wildlife habitat, and mitigating flood risks once it is established.

If your lawn has been mowed all the way to water's edge, or if your streamside trees and shrubs have been removed due to flood damage, you may be eligible for a CSBI project. In some specific cases we offer the removal of woody debris in the channel and/or minor grading of the stream bank if these practices will benefit the establishment of a new riparian buffer or aid in the recovery of the damaged buffer. (Contd. Pg. 8) Moving Moments with Friends & Family

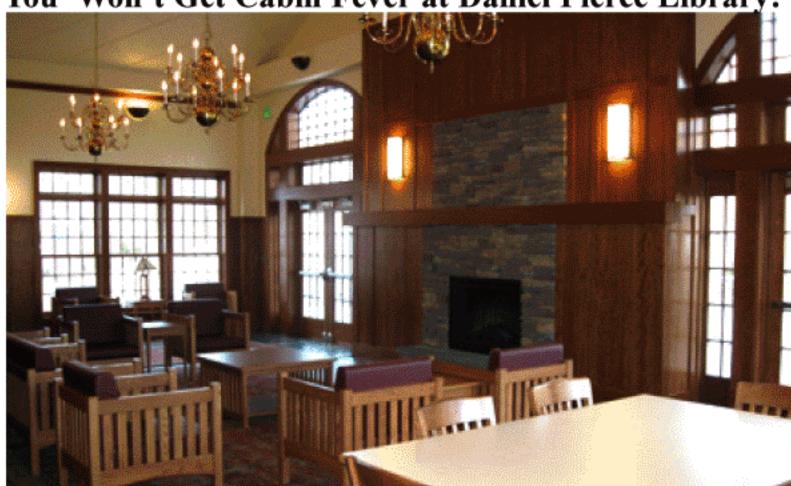

Some people wish upon a star, and others look for the end of the rainbow, but according to 14 year old Brianna Worden the thing that works best is to "Never give up and always follow your dream."

Many of the people in the Tri-Valley community know Brianna and admire her for different reasons. They knew her as a cheerleader. Brianna began cheering at a very early age as her mother, Janna Worden was the cheerleading coach at TVCS for many years and later became the cheerleading coach at SCCC. Others know Brianna as the holder of the crown and title of the current Miss Sullivan County Teen International.

To those close to Brianna, friends and family we know that every day has been a battle for Brianna as she continues to cope and fight the genetic disorder, neurofibromatosis that she was born with. As Miss Sullivan County Teen International and Children's Tumor NF Ambassador, Brianna has helped spread awareness both locally and nationally and vowed that her mission through her reign was to make people aware of neurofibromatosis as well as raise money that she hopes will help to someday find a cure for the disease, not only for herself but for the many other children and adults afflicted with the disease. DAYS OF YORE... Today's History

January 9, 1952 - The interior of the Methodist Church in Grahamsville is now in the process of being painted. Inasmuch as at least fifteen years have elapsed since it was last done, there is no question but that it is greatly needed. Moe Rubenzahl died at Maimonides Hospital in Liberty Saturday morning, December 29th. He was born March 14, 1900 in New York City. He was the son of Louis and Hannah Rubenzahl. Mr. Rubenzahl was a partner of Rubenzahl Egg Hatchery at Neversink. Surviving are a son, Harry and two brothers, Max and George, all of Neversink.

The Town Board of the Town of Denning held its organizational meeting at Ladleton on Wednesday evening, Jan. 2nd. Present were Supv. Herbert L. George; Town Clerk, Nellie Hamilton; Town Supt. of Highways, Ranse Hamilton; and Justices of the Peace Grant Sheley, J. Arthur Mackey, George V. Erts and Everett Smith.

John's pajamas caught fire when he climbed onto the kitchen stove to reach a cabinet. Douglas rolled his brother on the floor the way he was taught in Boy Scouts and put the fire out with his hands as there was nothing else available. John sustained only minimal burns. Douglas is a seventh grader at Tri-Valley Central School. He has been scouting for four years and is a member of Troop 187 in Grahamsville.

Small Business Grants For 'Main Street' and 'Agri-Business' Enterprises Sullivan

A new Sullivan County grant program will provide funds for small businesses that are connected to agriculture or are located in downtown areas of villages or hamlets. The deadline to apply is Friday, February 3.

The Microenterprise Assistance Program (MAP) is made possible with an $185,000 grant from the NYS Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Program. It is being administered by the Sullivan County Division of Planning and Environmental Management.

"The program will provide grants between $5,000 and $35,000 for business start-ups or existing enterprises with five or fewer employees. It targets two types of small businesses: 'Main Street' goods and services located within downtown areas of village or hamlet business districts, and 'Agri-Business' enterprises are farms, agriculture-support businesses, and businesses that process local farm-based products," said County Manager David Fanslau.

Additional funding is available through the county's Main Street Revolving Loan Fund and Agri-Business Revolving Loan Fund. "The goal is to help bridge the gap for small businesses looking to get started and to take advantage of other funding and support programs that are available," said Planning Commissioner Luiz

The MAP is a collaboration among the Division of Planning, the Sullivan County Center for Workforce Development, Sullivan Renaissance, Sullivan County Chamber of Commerce and Liberty Community Development Corporation.

Conditions of the grant include requiring partici-pating businesses to contribute at least 10% of the cost of the project. Also, businesses must create at least one new job that can be offered to or made available to persons from low or moderate-income households. New positions created must start by September 2013.

To receive the grant businesses must also participate in an Entrepreneurial Training Program. Chamber President and CEO Terri Ward said, "The partners have worked hard to assemble a roster of trainers and presentations meant to benefit small businesses in every stage of their development. The classes explore topics from developing a business plan to marketing your product, financing your plans, and finding, hiring and managing employees."

The deadline for grant applications is Friday, February 3, 2012. Sullivan County Planning will hold public information sessions about the program on Thursday, January 12 at 6:00 p.m. in the County Government Center in Monticello and on Wednesday, January 18, 2012, at 6:00 p.m. in the Callicoon Town Hall.

For more information or to request an application, contact the Sullivan County Division of Planning at 845-807-0541 or planning@co.sullivan.ny.us.

MOLES AND HOLES – Peggy De

When dinosaurs were wiped out on earth 60 million years ago, only small prehistoric land mammals remained. Of them, the Mole family Talpidae survived by living underground. They adjusted to darkness, heat or cold, wet or dry conditions. Fossils from the Eocene Period, about 50 million years ago, show that moles were thriving then.

Our Eastern mole (Scalopus aquaticus) now ranges from lower Canada to Florida and west to the Mississippi River. Three species live on the Pacific Coast.

Hardly ever seen above ground, a mole is a small mouse-like animal 4-6" long, weight 2-5 ounces.

It has strong front feet tipped with long claws, palms turned outward, perfect for digging. Moles have no ears and tiny pinhead size eyes that are covered with thin skin. The nose and tail are pink and naked.

A mole's pointy nose, shovel front feet and short tail have touch-sensitive hairs whose nerve endings enable a mole to tunnel along without bumping into the walls in its constant search for food to satisfy its huge appetite. Moles belong to the scientific order Insectivora which tells you what their main food is, supplemented by earthworms.

Mole fur is one of the softest animal pelts and shades from silvery gray in the north, brown to ivory in the south.

Moles dig two kinds of tunnels: a deep one down to twenty-four inches where they spend the winter and build a grass-lined nest in spring for several babies.

The little mounds of dirt on your lawn were pushed up from below as moles enlarged the nursery and deep connecting tunnels.

A shallow tunnel at grass root level makes a low winding ridge on lawns and golf courses. Moles travel along them to find food day and night, all sea-

Moles have one litter a year when several babies arrive in March in the south, May in the north.

The young grow quickly, become independent by one month old, and breed at one year. Moles can live several years if they escape enemies that dig like coyotes, foxes and feral cats, and avoid man-made dangers of traps and poison bait.

So this spring when you're furning at the moles that left those unsightly tunnels and heaps of dirt all over your lawn, just remember that the moles probably ate their weight in Japanese beetle grubs as they tunneled across your yard.

Helpful Hints - Sock it Two You!

Slide a toe-less sock over skis to hold them together...

If you are going to a Zumba lesson, slip a sock over your water bottle. The water will stay colder and the sock will absorb the sweat from your hands.

For an indoor game of baseball, roll up the Townsman to make a bat and use a rolled sock for the ball. Just don't play ball where there are any precious antiques!

MYSTERIOUS BOOK REPORT NO. 31 by John Dwaine McKenna

It looks like old man winter's moved in and intends to stay for a while. To tell you the truth, he's not one of my favorites either. I'd just as soon have him move to the North Pole where the polar bears need more ice. Don't get me wrong . . . I enjoy the seasons changing . . . just don't like the darn cold. It makes me ache. So, after enjoying the beautiful, snow-capped 14,000 foot mountain view out my front door, I hunker down by the fire with a good book. I have a stack of them to review while waiting for spring to arrive.

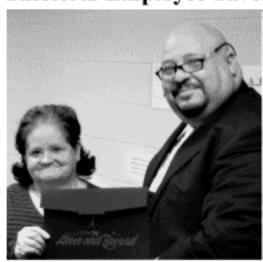

This weeks MBR NO. 31 is an interesting and unclassifiable novel titled Children of Paranoia, a first novel by a Brooklyn, NY writer named Trevor Shane. (Dutton, $25.95, 371 pages, ISBN 978-0-525-95237-4).

It's premise is arcane: a war is going on all around us in the form of assassinations disguised as accidents or random acts of violence. The war has two sides, one of which is good, the other one evil, but the problem is, we're never quite sure which is which. The war is conducted by groups of assassins who have only four rules: first, no killing of innocents, those who are not participants. Second, no killing of anyone under age eighteen. Third, any child born to a child (those under eighteen) is immediately given to the other side to raise as their own, and the fourth and last rule . . . break any of the first three rules and you become the target of both sides. On the first page we're introduced to Joseph, a young twenty-something who's been assassinating people since he was eighteen years old. He's a soldier in a war that's been going on for generations, but no one knows when, why or how it got started. Joseph's personal war takes a radical turn when he meets a woman while on an assignment that goes wrong. From that point, the novel twists and turns toward what the jacket writer calls a "heart in the throat" conclusion. I'm not sure I agree with that because of the novels lack of a foundational premise, the why, and it's nihilism, or pointlessness. There is no reason for the war, it just is. Perhaps it's a reflection of the times we live in, so full of conflict and uncertainty that it afforded an opportunity for someone to write and someone to publish a book like this. One thing about it is certain though . . . it's been nicely set up for a sequel. Sorry. I've got other books to read, columns to write and editing to do as well as working on the follow-up to The Neversink Chronicles, which I'm happy to report, has been well-received and is flying off the shelves. If you haven't got around to ordering a copy as yet, go see Meigan Dean at Cannie D's Corner in Neversink. She'll help you. If you can't make it to Neversink, copies can be ordered from rhyolitepress.com or the traditional way (my personal favorite) at PO Box 2406, Colorado Springs, CO 80901. But wait! There's more! If you go to my website: johndwainem-ckenna.com you can find The Neversink Chronicles, comment, suggest, critique, see a host of reading suggestions and lists of the best books of the year, say hello or let us know what you're reading. We'd love hearing from you. Don't forget to check out your local library and all of the free programs there. Hope you're all snug warm and safe reading a good book. I'll see you next week. --IDM all snug, warm and safe, reading a good book. I'll see you next week. --JDM

Fallsburg Central School District Cafeteria Employee Saves Child's Life

On Tuesday, December 2011 during the third grade lunch period, a student was eating lunch and swallowed a meatball which got lodged in her throat. Margaret Benizzi, a cafeteria monitor, saw what happened, ran to the student's aide and performed the Heimlich Maneuver. By doing the maneuver, the meatball came flying out of the child's mouth, allowing her to breathe again. Margaret did not hesitate to help this child in need as she saved that child's life! As Superintendent of Schools, I could not be prouder of Ms. Benizzi's actions! On January 4, 2012, at a regularly scheduled Board of Education meeting, Ms. Benizzi received a STAR (Fallsburg Central School District Staff/Teacher Award Recognition) award for her quick-thinking and awesome actions. In attendance during this award ceremony was the child that was saved along with her mother. Both the mother and daughter expressed their gratitude to Ms.

Benizzi. The Fallsburg Central School District is proud of Margaret Benizzi!

Ulster County Executive Responds to May Bloomberg's Comments Regarding Upstate Watershed Concerns

In response to Ulster County Executive Mike Hein's invitation for New York City Mayor Michael Bloomberg to tour the damage caused by New York City's Department of Environmental Protection (NYC DEP), the Mayor said the following, "I have absolutely no idea where it's coming from or what he is talking about."

The County Executive responded, "I am confident that the Mayor's statement that, "he has no idea what we are talking about" is absolutely accurate. It is clear that the Mayor is being misled NYC DEP. The NYC DEP does not want the Mayor or the people of New York City to learn of the damage a city agency is causing to upstate residents. The NYC DEP's effort to deflect attention away from the damage they have caused and the people they are harming is disgraceful."

The County Executive renewed his request for the Mayor to travel upstate to witness, first hand, the damage and harm his agency is causing. He said, "We believe the Mayor can solve this problem if he ignores the misinformation distributed by the NYC DEP and agrees to take the short drive upstate to witness what the NYC DEP is doing. If the Mayor is unwilling to travel upstate, I encourage members of the NYC media to visit Ulster County to see for themselves what the DEP is doing. This is not about cheap water at any cost; it is about doing the right thing." President and Hudson River Keeper Paul Gallay of the leading water quality organization Riverkeeper said, "The County Executive is 100%. These are serious issues going on upstate and it is time the NYC DEP begins to solve them."

In addition to County Executive Hein, New York State Senator John Bonacic echoed the County Executive's call for Mayor Bloomberg to travel upstate. He said, "The Mayor is a business person and a pretty sensible guy. He can jet off to Bermuda for a weekend because of his brilliant business success. It is hardly unreasonable to ask him to drive 90 miles to see the chocolate milklike water his DEP has turned the Esopus creek into."

Suspect Who Threatened to Shoot

Police Taken into Custody
On Monday January 2, 2012 Sheriff's Deputies interviewed a female complainant who reported that her ex-boyfriend was harassing her. The victim, who had an order of protection, stated that John Ferreri, Jr., 21 years old, of Smallwood, NY was continually calling and texting her cellphone and threatening her. While she was filing the report at the Sheriff's Office, the suspect once again called her cell phone. Deputies answered the victim's phone and confronted him. Ferreri became enraged that the Deputies were involved and threatened to shoot them if they tried to arrest him. A warrant of arrest was obtained for Ferreri and Deputies began searching for him. The next day, January 3, 2012 Deputies, acting on a tip, went to a residence on Fox Mountain Rd. in White Sulphur Springs. Ferreri fled the residence via the back door just before the Deputies arrived. The Sheriff's Office then contacted the State Police Violent Felony Warrant Squad for assistance. Information was eventually developed that the suspect was holed up at the Catskill Motel in Liberty. On Friday January 6, 2012, at approximately 2:30 PM Sheriff's Deputies, State Troopers, and the Village of Liberty Police sur-rounded the motel and took John Ferreri, Jr. into custody without incident. Ferreri who was unarmed at the time was charged with Criminal Contempt in the First Degree, a Felony, and Aggravated Harassment . He was arraigned before Town of Bethel Judge Cindy Barber and sent to the Sullivan County Jail without bail. The suspect is due back in court Monday night, January 9, 2012 at 7:00 PM.

Extension to hold Corn Crop Insurance Meeting

Cornell Cooperative Extension Sullivan County is pleased to present Charlie Koines, NY State Agriculture and Markets Crop Insurance Specialist and Fay Benson of Cornell Pro-Dairy to discuss crop insurance options for corn both grain and silage on February 2, 2012 from 10am to 11am at the Jeffersonville Public Library. The difference between insuring corn for grain, for silage, or dual purpose will be discussed to which options are more suitable for your farm.

Why think about corn crop insurance now? Because seed order discount deadlines and reservation dates are approaching and the type of corn seed you buy can give you some flexibility in relation to crop insurance. There is no charge to attend the meeting. Light refreshment will be served. Registration is required, minimum attendance needed to conduct the meeting. This meeting will be using the Public Computing Center at the Jeffersonville Public Library.

For more information, please contact Trish Westenbroek at Cornell Cooperative Extension Sullivan County at 845-292-6180 ext 109 or email at paw34@cornell.edu.

The Olive Jar - Carol LaMonda

Don Van Buren, Peter Friedel, Ron Wright, and Bert Leifeld

The Town Board held its reorganizational meeting on January 3, 2012. Don Van Buren, who won Henry Rank's seat, and incumbent Peter Friedel were sworn in as Town Councilman. Town Justice, Tim Cox, administered the oath of office to the newly elected town board members who join Bruce La Monda and Linda Burkhardt. Ron Wright, veteran Town Justice, and Bert Leifeld, Town Supervisor, vowed to continue their service to the Town of Olive. Supervisor Leifeld assigned duties to the Town Board Members and read the positions and salaries of all town employees. The first regular Town Board Meeting will be held on Tuesday, January 10, 2012.

Meetings are held monthly on the second Tuesday of each month. It would be a civic-minded resolution to attend meetings to keep informed on issues. It is far better to be involved and be able to ask questions rather than listen to someone else's interpretation of what is going on. Math is not my strong point, but I do know that accuracy decreases with each retelling of information. Communication is best when it is direct and not interpreted though personal perception. Besides, the entertainment value surpasses most of Tuesday's prime time shows!

Olive Muse-

Townspeople in Rochester Turn Dems Out To Pasture Over Comp Plan

I recently attended another sweet gathering in Olive and crossed paths with Supervisor Carl Chipman of the Town of Rochester, who was elected Town Supervisor in 2006. He said that he was elected largely due to the Town of Rochester Draft Comprehensive Plan process, which Supervisor Chipman said was carried out in an unethical manner which served to unite his town and carry him to victory in the 2006 election. Supervisor Chipman was gracious enough to give us a candid interview about his Comp Plan experience. He said:

"My predecessor had a "Vision Rochester" group and she put her own people on the committee. They did do a written survey but it was loaded to install their plan. They had it set to go in a certain direction, away from the old ways here. That's what opened the door for me."

Chipman continued: "I started the process by bringing everyone in, that's the way I handle everything, with transparency. What you want to do is cast the net as widely as possible, engage all the stakeholder groups, bring in all the players and have them work it out and come up with something. Don't ram it down somebody's throat."

He added: "When we all get together and brainstorm, the good ideas start to flow. You have to seek everyone out and make sure everyone is heard. Sometimes it's difficult because some people want to exclude others and dominate. I can tell you it doesn't work. My predecessor hand-picked a crew who looked good but they weren't and the people saw through it."

When asked what the issues were, Chipman said: "When they started telling you what color you could paint things, it was over for them. They wanted to tell you how high your grass could be, what you could plant, what color your mailbox could be. They were real control freaks. We have been here for 300 years, what the hell is going on!!!??? It was simply unacceptable. It scared the living * out of everybody. She had a crew putting teeth in the plan through the zoning regulations. There was a lot of stuff going on behind closed doors. It was scary and they were all thrown out as a result."

When asked how he got the project back on course, he said: "I asked each Town Board member to appoint 2 people to the plan committee, 10 people in all, so everyone had a say. There was a few good things in there that we kept, we did not throw the baby out with the bath water, simpler, less restrictive, something that people can live with."

When asked about the actual proceedings, Chipman said: "We had 8 day long meetings on weekends over about 18 months and everyone had a say. We are very careful not to give any home rule away, the townspeople would never allow it, they've been here 300 years and they don't fool around. They are reserved, yes, but poke them in the eye enough times it becomes tar and feather time, watch out! Our shared vision is our heritage and it is what makes us special. We have a built in bias against government taking away anything. We took out everything that was binding, it was done very loosely. It really united the town."

MARK YOUR CALENDARS: Sat., Feb. 11th, 7:30am 'till 11am, Pancake Breakfast at Olivebridge United Methodist Church, Rt. 213, Olivebridge. A very sweet gathering, and you can walk it off at the nearby reservoir walkway with its breathtaking views of the Catskills.

RESERVOIR MUSIC NOTES-

Fred Perry, Owner of Reservoir Music Center,

Greetings readers! Once again, we lost two pretty important people this week. Fred Milano of the original Dion and The Belmonts passed away January 3rd at 72, and we also lost Tommy Ardolino, 3179 Route 28, Shokan, NY 12481. 845-657-6127, the drummer for NRBQ. Two great groups that lost original members this week. I guess everybody's getting to that age. I have nothing profound to propound about this week, so I'm just going to get straight to my live music picks.

Wednesday, Jan. 11 - The great ROBERT GORDON returns to BB King's in Manhattan. He's older, grayer, and paunchier, but he stills rocks out with the best of them! If you go, request "The Way I Walk". KENNY VANCE AND THE PLANOTONES carry the doo wop torch into the City Winery in Manhattan. Kenny was an original member of Jay and The Americans and is still singing great! ROSS RICE AND THE VERY SEXY TRIO are at The Catamount in Mount Tremper for their regular biweekly Wednesday night gig. There's also an unusual gig this evening in that it's a spoken word reading, but it's music related. Inquiring Minds Book Store in Saugerties hosts RAUNCH AND ROLL, readings by authors Howard Massey, Robert Burke Warren, and Jeremy Wilber from their original writings. Massey will read from his recently published book "Roadie", inspired by the life of the immortal Ian Stewart AKA the sixth Rolling Stone; Wilber from his book, "Miles From Woodstock" about the heady days in Woodstock back in the day; and Warren from his original writings. Should be quite interesting!

Thursday, Jan. 12 - The inimitable BOOTSY COLLINS, late of P-Funk and James Brown's band, stops by to funkify BB King's in Manhattan.

Friday, Jan. 13 - My friend, TODD WOLFE, formerly Sheryl Crow's guitarist, brings his electric blues band to the Roundout Music Lounge in Kingston, but I will have to skip Todd this time around, as I will be at The Bearsville Theater for this week's Pick of the Week. THE BEARSVILLE SESSIONS BAND, in their fifth installment of the series, focuses on The British Invasion. Now, this is the music I cut my teeth on, the band is great, so I gotta be there! But for those of you seeking something a little less raucous, RHETT MILLER, frontman of Americana rockers, The Old 97's, makes a rare local appearance at The Orient in Poughkeepsie (He lives in New Paltz). Also tonight is the (usually) weekly jam at the home of Stephen and Dona Crawford. All are invited. The address is 49 Webber Lane, Olivebridge.

Saturday, Jan 14 - If you're upstate, THE BEN ROUNDS BAND rocks The Catamount in Mount Tremper. If you're downstate, SKOLLIE, a great band consisting of Blondie Chaplin, Anton Fig, and Keith Lentin, is at The Rock Shop in Brooklyn. Blondie has spent the past couple of decades singing and playing guitar with The Rolling Stones, and before that, toured with Rick Danko and was a member of The Beach Boys. Anton Fig has been playing drums in the David Letterman Late Show Band since forever. Keith has played with Chris Spedding and a host of others.

Monday, January 16 - Last week, when I recommended STEVE EARLE at City Winery, I didn't realize that his gig there was a residency that runs every Monday night from now until Feb. 6, but that's what it is, so it'll be here again next week and every week through Feb.6. Catch at least one of them. If you dig Jazz, there's a great club in Manhattan on Broadway and 105th called Smoke, and they do! Some of the hottest jazz guys in New York call this club their home, and every Monday night, they have THE SMOKE BIG BAND. Ellington, Billie Holiday, Nina Simone, Count Basie. You get the picture? Smoke's jam session will blow your mind!

Tuesday, Jan. 17 - The new version of NRBQ is at The Iridium in Manhattan tonight. Piano player, Terry Adams is the only original member, but I'm sure they'll still rock as hard as ever. For you upstaters, check out the open mic at The Catamount in Mount Tremper, hosted by Ben Rounds.

For a more complete listing of musical events in the Hudson Valley, check out www.hvmusic.com, a great resource for musicians and music fans. They have a great calendar, musicians wanted and available, items wanted and for sale, open mics, and more, all for free. And they also host and post this column, along with The Townsman and my website, www.reservoirmusiccenter.com.

Have a great week!

Catskill Streams Buffer Initiative Applications (From Pg. 1)

A large part of CSBI's mis-sion is to help streamside property owners to understand difference between healthy and potentially harmful practices that could be contributing to increased erosion, property damage, and

In Denning and Neversink,
the Catskill Streams Buffer

What makes this program so unique is that it is targeted towards private landowners on small stream-side parcels. Friday Means Fun!

Every Friday half a dozen or so members of the community have a serious game of Mexican Train Dominoes. It looks like its Barbara Purcell's turn!

Who says Barbara does't take an hour or so off from working on the projects at the museum, helpling to put the Townsman together, volunteering for numerous Renaissance Projects about town and a spearheading a multitude of other tasks. Barbara is the visionary behind many of the exhibits at The Time and the Valleys Museum. She doesn't stop with the mental image, but, works right alongside of the crew manifesting her dreams into reality. Always busy we have often wondered when does she have time to think up all the creative projects that she has generated? So we asked and she told us it is usually in the middle of the night. Next question - "When do you sleep, Barbara?"

By the way, if you want to have some fun on Fridays too, Neversink Parks and Recreation sponsors this delightful activity that is held at the Neversink Town Hall. Call (845) 985-2262 extension 312 visit www.townofneversink.org for more information and other activites offered by Neversink Parks and Recreation.

Moving Moments (From Pg.1) On Saturday evening friends and family came together to celebrate Brianna at a Zumba thon that was held at TVCS. Still able to keep up with the other 'Zumba athletes, it was an emotional evening in every sense of the word 'motion' for Brianna. Two students from Fallsburg school who learned about the Zumba-thon joined the festivities also had neurofibromatosis and until Saturday evening their mother said she thought they were alone in their battle.

Brianna and Mom share a happy moment watching the Zumba enthusiasts do their 'stuff'!

Neurofibromatosis is a genetic disorder that disrupts cell growth in the nervous system, causing tumors to form on nerve tissue. These tumors can occur anywhere in the nervous system, including the brain, spinal cord, and large and small nerves.

Neurofibromatosis is typically diagnosed in childhood or early adulthood.

Effects of neurofibromatosis vary and can range from hearing loss and learning impairment to cardiovascular complications and, in a few cases, cancer.

Neurofibromatosis treatment aims to maximize healthy growth and development and to manage complications as soon as they

Brianna would like to especially thank you to Lori Scanna Karadontes, Kimberly Edwards, Nicole Gorr, faculty members including Mr. Eckhoff, Darlene Scanna Beiling. Tayna Cohen, Stacy Seefeldt. While the prayers, and hopes from the community and family that love Brianna have proven miracles do happen, the Zumba-thon was certainly a prayer of love and healing of a different kind, but we know it worked, as she smiled all the way home and is now ready to face the next challenge so she can quickly get back to be with her friends and family. To put it in Brianna's words, "Having your family and friends around you always makes you feel better."

)The Heirophant (in two parts) By Thorn Winter

"Am I talking to John? To Hermes? Who are you?" Tim asked in the message he left on my voicemail. I looked up at Catherine while holding the cell phone to my ear, gripping the Staff of the Hierophant in my other hand. She pointed behind me, looking oddly calm for a bride denied. I looked and saw Ivy staring up at me with her big, ice blue eyes, wisps of light brown hair curling from beneath a grey and purple knit cap. Her innocent smile promised life and mystery. I looked back at Catherine and shrugged. They were both so young and alive in their moment that neither realized I was throwing away everything for one of them. The choice would be made not by me, but by the Outer Gods in whom I trusted.

Tim's passive aggressive nature flared through his message and I really felt how annoyed he was with me. His crew of crack heads and ex-cons had turned our eight year friendship and my well-paying employment into a distrustful, ornery, and childish gossip war from which I was finally laid off. The job was my stability and earned a barely suitable income that took care of Cat and I. It was after losing it that I had my psychic breakthrough, and I made the decision to become the Hierophant of The Outer Gods. No one understood, not Tim, not Catherine, not her or my family or friends. They mocked me, they laughed, they joked, they advised, and they concocted their own colorful reasons for my choice to become Hermes.

Ivy didn't laugh at me. She knew my real name but didn't use it. To her I was Hermes and was free to explore my awakening to the Void and the Abyss and all the horror and madness that comes with their study. Catherine, on the other hand, had plans for me. Listening to the subtle, psychically transmitted messages of the Outer Gods was seen by her as a quirk -- a strangeness that she would pretend to understand.

Ivy laughed at other things, funny things -freely, and with the naivety of a child at play. Sometimes it alarmed me and made me feel my age. Other times I was quickened and left feeling the frosty, primal vitality that is felt more powerfully, but less often as a man ages. Ivy had enormous eyes, as though her very nature forced her genetics to supply her with the widest field of vision possible. I had small, deep set eyes. I always saw my nose and if I looked up I could see my eyebrows.

Catherine laughed when it suited the moment. Occasionally she laughed for real, but only at easy to grasp humor. I used her to warm my soul after long explorations that left me unstable and on the verge of madness. The void is cold and its allure was in no small way related to my love for Cat. Most things that should be felt, processed, and re-expressed got blocked at one step or another in her emotional

Her childhood was stifling, and ingrained within her a practical nature that cut off all but the most immediately quenchable desires. Her very rich and successful grandparents did nothing to alleviate this condition and even served to perfect it, turning Catherine into the image of a perfect human -- an empty life masked by a suitable car, a nice apartment, a Master's Degree, and a good job. I was the imperfect fiancé. My life was full -- it was my pockets that were empty. I was something to be changed or gotten rid of. But no one ever changes, they just become more of what they are and get rid > of their lesser selves or they remain as they are and get left behind.

I was, to her grandparents and parents, better off taking a town job and maintaining the county's roads with her father, as opposed to my current status of working days as a Barista and evenings as Hierophant. Catherine supported my decision to give up the life of a laborer and accepted my uncommon and historically unorthodox craft as well as the limited earning potential of my daytime profession, but she constantly pushed me toward returning to school. I know my nature, and having Catherine has always been an excellent counterpoint to my lifestyle -- an unmethodical series of experiences that has left me laid off and with no prospects at the age of 32. Her cold, passionless nature was a nearly indestructible wall at which I launched the black and red paint of my soul in volcanic outbursts. After my releases I watched, guiltily, as my dark, emotional ectoplasm dripped and dried over her. I was like a sated prince looking down at an enthralled, breathless princess on her knees. So much of her manner had changed, tainted by me in the way that all beings share culture with constant contact.

But that was the thing that Catherine loved. She loved my passion, my culture, my romance, especially when it was focused on her, telling her how beautiful she was, how loving, how smart, how put together. I showered her with what she craved. Even when I spoke of myself it was in terms of her-how much I loved her, how lucky I was, how what I did was for her. The first time I thought of killing her scared me, the second time, less so. I didn't want to kill her. She was the reason I finally realized I wanted to be the Hierophant. Life is unfair.

In my duties as the Hierophant of the Outer Gods it was important that I sought out all manner of experience, the more madness inducing the better. But to enjoy a long career at such a thing one must remain moderate with his insanity. The initial division of self, in my case the psychic killing of John Soldier and my reincarnation as Hermes, Hierophant of The Outer Gods, comes with a sharp but manageable instability.

When I signed the paperwork officially and legally changing my name from John Soldier to Hermes, I never hesitated, but I did, while waiting on line, or while waiting for papers to arrive in the mail, always rethink my decision, which is the other key to longevity as a Hierophant-constantly question your environment and your reactions to it. My favorite quote, from Kjeld Mjolnir's Dark Book of Useless Rituals, which mentions the Outer Gods, reads "You never know what lies."

101 Canal St., Ellenville www.matthewspharmacy.com Governor Cuomo Outlines Plan to Continue Building a New New York by Growing the Economy, Reinventing State Government, and Advancing New York as a Progressive Leader

Governor Andrew M. Cuomo delivered his 2012 State of the State Address in which he outlined a comprehensive agenda that builds on the success of last year. The Governor launched a new economic development blueprint that invests billions of dollars in key public-private sector partnerships and rebuilding infrastructure to create thousands of new jobs across the state, proposed a reinvention of how government operates in order to get results for the people while protecting taxpayer dollars, and detailed a series of actions to strengthen New York's legacy as the progressive capital of the nation.

"New York State is on the way to coming back stronger than ever before. By working together in a bipartisan manner and putting the people first, we have established the credibility to govern and to lead. Now we must build on what we have already accomplished to begin to undo decades of decline. We have big problems, but we are confronting them with big solutions. Now is the time to get to work, building a New New York together," Governor Cuomo said.

An Economic Blueprint for New York

Governor Cuomo said, "Our challenge for 2012 is this: How does government spur job creation in a down economy while limiting spending and maintaining fiscal discipline? The answer is forging public-private partnerships that leverage state resources to generate billions of dollars in economic growth and create thousands of jobs."

- New York Will Build the Largest Convention Center in the Nation: To build on New York's strength as an international tourist destination, Governor Cuomo proposed a project to build the largest convention center in the country at the Aqueduct Race Track venue in New York City. The 3.8 million square foot convention center would accommodate the nation's largest events, drive demand for hotel rooms and restaurant meals, and create new tourism revenues. The project would be a $4 billion private investment that is estimated to generate tens of thousands of jobs and create new economic activity throughout the state.

-Master Plan for the Jacob Javits Site: With plans for a new convention center in New York City, the Governor called for a master plan for the Jacob Javits site to create a mixed use facility and revitalize New York City's West Side with 18 acres of planned development. The plan would follow the successful Battery Park City model and involve more than $2 billion in estimated private sector development funds to create a new 21st century neighborhood on the

-$1 Billion Economic Development Package for Buffalo: Buffalo is the third poorest city in the nation with 28% of its residents living in poverty and chronically high unemployment. To combat this, the Governor announced that New York State will offer national and global industries up to $1 billion in multi-year economic development incentives to come to Buffalo. By inviting large investments in growth industries- similar to those which made the Capital Region into a world-class center for nanotechnology innovation and the home of major semiconductor manufacturers- the Governor's plan for Buffalo is designed to create thousands of jobs and spur at least $5 billion in new investment and economic activity.

-A Second Round of Regional Economic Development Awards: Building on the success of the Regional Economic Development Councils, Governor Cuomo announced that New York will keep the momentum going with a $200 million second competitive round of regional economic development awards in 2012. The Councils have transformed the state's economic development approach from a top-down model to a bottom-up, community-based one. The second round of awards will allow each region to continue creating its own economic destiny. In addition, the New York Open for Business campaign will step up its efforts to market New York to the world as a place to invest and will expand its promotion tourism by highlighting regional treasures like the Adirondacks, Catskills, wine country, and Long Island beaches.

-A Comprehensive Approach to Casino Gaming: Recognizing that New York is losing tax revenue, tourism dollars and jobs to neighboring states, Governor Cuomo announced that he will support a constitutional amendment to allow gaming in New York State. An estimated $1 billion in economic activity could be generated from gaming in New York State.

-The New York Works Fund and Task Force: To help create private sector jobs and rebuild New York's infrastructure, Governor Cuomo announced the creation of the New York Works Fund and Task Force to coordinate and leverage capital investment- twenty private sector dollars to every public dollar- and put thousands of New Yorkers to work. The fund will support projects to improve or replace more than 100 bridges including the Tappan Zee, repair work to 2,000 miles of roadways, upgrades to 90 municipal water systems, improvements to 48 state parks and historic sites, and repair work to 114 flood control projects and dams.

- An "Energy Highway" System to Power New York's Economic Growth: To ensure a cost efficient and reliable supply of power is available to fuel the state's economic growth, the Governor announced a plan to build a private sector funded $2 billion "Energy Highway" system that will tap into the generation capacity and renewable energy potential in Upstate and Western NY to bring low-cost power to meet the tremendous energy needs in Downstate New York. The plan also calls for the repowering of old and dirty plants to stop pollution in urban neighborhoods.

- Invest in Solar While Protecting Ratepayers: Noting that New York is a national leader in cost-effective, renewable energy production, Governor Cuomo announced that his administration will launch the NY-Sun Initiative to expand solar energy production in the state while keeping costs under control to protect the ratepayer. NY-Sun will help increase competitive procurement of large, commercial-sized solar projects and expand rebate programs for residential and commercial small-to-medium systems. The program will strengthen the state's energy sector, and is designed to quadruple annual development of solar by 2013.

-Expedite On-Bill Financing for Consumer Energy Efficiency Upgrades: Governor Cuomo announced that On-Bill financing, a statewide program that allows consumers to retrofit their homes with energy efficient upgrades and pay for the cost on their monthly energy bill, will be offered to homeowners beginning in January 2012. On-Bill financing was scheduled to go live in June, but an agreement between the state and utilities expedited the start, allowing for new jobs to be produced immediately and benefits to be delivered to 40,000 homes

-Master Plan for Energy Efficiency in State Facilities: To promote energy efficiency, save taxpayer money, create jobs, and reduce pollution, Governor Cuomo announced that the State has developed a master plan for accelerating energy-saving improvements in state facilities. The plan is designed to save millions of dollars through new economical energy efficiency measures and would come at no cost to the state as the upfront investment would be repaid from the energy savings. The program will create thousands of high skilled jobs and reduce lifecycle greenhouse gas emissions by 8.1 million metric tons.

-Farm-NY: Strengthening New York's Agriculture Sector: Recognizing that agriculture contributes billions of dollars to New York's economy, Governor Cuomo announced a series of measures to support farmers and help the agricultural industry grow. To improve access to low interest loans that will assist farmers with infrastructure upgrades, the New York State Linked Deposit Program will be expanded to provide farmers in any part of the state with capital at affordable interest rates. Noting that 1.5 million New Yorkers live in areas with limited supermarket access, the Governor called for expanding the successful FreshConnect farmers' market program to provide more residents with healthy, New York-grown food. In addition, the Governor called for the creation of large-scale distribution hubs strategically located across the state to improve promotion of produce grown by New York farmers.

A Reimagined Government

Governor Cuomo said, "To tackle this ambitious agenda, we need a government that can make it happen. This is not a question of tinkering around the edges. We need a government that performs better and costs less."

-Long Term Commitment to Fiscal Discipline: Recognizing that the State is more competitive when taxes are reduced, Governor Cuomo called for holding the line on spending this year and closing the remaining $2 billion budget deficit with no new taxes or fees.

-Mandate Relief: Noting that by next year, pension costs for schools, state, and local governments will have increased more than 100% since 2009, Governor Cuomo called for reform to the pension system and the creation of a Tier VI retirement plan. The Governor announced that he will ask the joint Legislative and Executive Mandate Relief Council to hold public hearings and issue a package of recommendations to be voted on this legislative session.

Transforming Public Education: New York spends more money on education than any other state, yet places 38th in graduation rates. To reform the state's education system, Governor Cuomo announced that he will appoint a bipartisan education commission to work with the Legislature to recommend reforms in key areas including teacher accountability, student achievement, and management efficiency.

-Redesigning New York's Emergency Management System: The destructiveness of Hurricane Irene and Tropical Storm Lee revealed limitations in the state's emergency response operations, including breakdowns in communications and transportation, as well as inadequacies in deployment of personnel. In an effort to build the best state emergency operation in the country and prepare New York for future emergency situations, Governor Cuomo called for a new statewide network of municipal and regional emergency responders. The network will improve statewide communications and help ensure that resources can be deployed effectively in emergency situations.

A New York Vision for a Progressive Future

Governor Cuomo said, "New York has a long and proud history as the progressive capital of the nation. It's a legacy that we reestablished last year. We must build on our success this year."

-Foreclosure Prevention Assistance: The financial crisis has taken a serious toll on homeowners across New York State, with many forced out of their homes and others facing foreclosure, Governor Cuomo announced that the Department of Financial Services will create a Foreclosure Relief Unit to provide counseling and mediation services to help New Yorkers stay in their homes. -Creating a Tenant Protection Unit: To better protect tenants and ensure the tough rent regulations enacted in 2011 are properly enforced, Governor Cuomo announced that New York State Homes and Community Renewal will create a Tenant Protection Unit to investigate fraud and prosecute landlords who fail to maintain essential services.

-A Continued Commitment to Minority and Women-Owned Businesses: To build on last year's efforts to expand economic opportunities for minority and women owned business enterprises (MWBEs), Governor Cuomo announced new measures to continue support for MWBEs. With credit access difficulties hindering the competitiveness of many MWBEs, New York will extend credit to give MWBE contractors the backing they need to succeed. The program will support at least $200 million in contracting for MWBE firms.

- Additional SUNY Challenge Grants: For years, SUNY has been the great equalizer for the middle class by allowing New Yorkers from working families to gain a quality education. To build on last year's efforts to rebuild SUNY through bringing together academic excellence and economic development, the Governor announced that program to allow SUNY's 60 campuses to compete for three $20 million challenge grants. The grants will continue the Governor's work to build SUNY institutions into leading centers of excellence, innovation, and job creation.

- No Child Should Go to Bed Hungry in New York: With 1 in 6 children in New York State living in homes without enough food on the table, Governor Cuomo declared that no child should go hungry in New York State and his administration will do all it can to prevent it. Thirty percent of New Yorkers who are eligible for food stamps do not receive them, leaving over $2 billion in federal funds unclaimed every year. To help these New Yorkers, the Governor announced that his administration will seek to increase participation in food stamp programs by reducing barriers including fingerprinting for working families, and work to eliminate the stigma associated with the hunger assistance programs. (Contd. Pg. 14)

POLITICAL SLANT- Frank Comando -

I wish to commend Congressman Maurice Hinchey for standing up and voting for the American People, by voting 'NO!' on the National Defense Authorization Act HR 1540, a bill that allows the arrest of American citizens, by the military, on U.S. soil. This nay vote proves once again that Congressman Maurice Hinchey is not a politician but, Mr. Hinchey is a statesman as defined by our founding fathers.

Statement by the President on signing H.R. 1540, a bill the President said, he would Veto. "Today I have signed into law H.R. 1540, the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal year 2012. I have signed the Act chiefly because it authorizes funding for the defense of the United States and its interests abroad, crucial services for service members and their families, and vital national security programs that must be renewed. In hundreds of separate sections totaling over 500 pages, the Act also contains critical Administration initiatives to control the spiraling health care costs of the Department of Defense (DoD), to develop counterterrorism initiatives abroad, to build the security capacity of key partners, to modernize the force, and to boost the efficiency and effectiveness of military operations worldwide."

The fact that I support this bill as a whole does not mean I agree with everything in it. In particular, I have signed this bill despite having serious reservations with certain provisions that regulate the detention, interrogation, and prosecution of suspected terrorists. Over the last several years, my Administration has developed an effective, sustainable framework for the detention, interrogation and trial of suspected terrorists that allows us to maximize both our ability to collect intelligence and to incapacitate dangerous individuals in rapidly developing situations, and the results we have achieved are undeniable. Our success against al-Qa'ida and its affiliates and adherents has derived in significant measure from providing our counterterrorism professionals with the clarity and flexibility they need to adapt to changing circumstances and to utilize whichever authorities best protect the American people, and our accomplishments have respected the values that make our country an example for the world.

I am sorry Mr. President most of our readers do not agree with the signing of the "National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012" as long as this Act, contains the statute, that allows the imprisonment of American citizens. This bill HR 1540, combined with the Patriot Act, an act that espouses that anyone, who constantly refers to the constitution of the US as the definer of our rights, or criticizes the operation of the government, can be considered a terrorist. People interviewed around our area are stating that this bill is catamount to an act of war against the American people. Since the house and the senate passed this bill, people, also feel that, we now have taxation, without representation, asit was in 1773 when an incident called "The Boston Tea Party," occurred. I wonder what todays very different "Tea Party" thinks?

Bonacic: DEP Shows Arrogance on

Response to UC Concerns-(From Pg. 1)
Ulster County Executive Michael Hein released his public invitation to Mayor Bloomberg to come to Ulster County. In response, DEP staff attacked Hein viciously, saying in part that the DEP has invested $1.5 billion over 20 years "upstate" as part of their effort to "protect" their water supply. "Even though I live upstate and no longer have the benefit of Manhattan math like the DEP does," said Bonacic, who was born in New York City, "$1.5 billion over 20 years comes out to $9.38 per year when you consider that 8 million New York City residents drink that water. That is an absolute bargain. If they bought their water from upstate by the gallon, and gave the money to watershed area residents whose lands were taken to create the reservoirs, the word 'fracking' would never pass the lips of anyone in my Senate District again because we would all be rich with water lease payments instead of potential gas lease payments," Senator Bonacic said. The Senator said it was "eminently reasonable" to invite Mayor Bloomberg to come to Ulster County and indicated he hoped the Mayor would come soon. "The Mayor is no coward. He is not afraid to confront issues. He ought to come up here. I suspect his staff is keeping him in the dark about some of the problem's because no sensible business-person would treat others the way the DEP and their staff treat the citizens of the watershed," concluded Senator Bonacic gift of your friendship? With the new year comes a new beginning - a chance to do something that will fulfill you and another person during 2012. Compeer (companion/peer) is a nationwide program that recruits volunteers to form one-to-one friendships with someone who is recovering from mental illness. In the past thirty or so years, Compeer has grown from one location, originally serving 12 individuals to the International Affiliation of Compeer Programs with affiliates established in 105 cities, 29 states and two other countries. In Sullivan County, since 1983, Compeer has been a program of Friends and Advocates for Mental Health, the local affiliate of the National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI).

At any given time, between 30 and 45 million Americans suffer from a mental illness that requires professional treatment. They are often linked by the common denominators of devastating loneliness, isolation and intense misunderstanding. The help they need on the road to recovery is often more than traditional therapy alone can offer. They need the support of a friend. They need a Compeer volunteer. The rewards are many when you volunteer for Compeer. There are opportunities for personal growth and satisfaction through helping others. Your friendship will help combat the stigma associated with mental illness. You can also gain solid experience for a resume. Being a Compeer volunteer is fun - you're matched with someone who shares similar interests and background and you do things you both enjoy. Compeer friends agree to share a few hours together each month - the hours are flexible and fit your schedule, because you choose the hours you spend with your friend, just as you would with any friendship.

Compeer...it's as simple as being a friend. For more information, please contact Lori Schneider-Wendt at (845) 794-1029 or via e-mail - AMI-FAMH@aol.com

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR:

Dear Voter:

After four years of disastrous politics under former Governors Spitzer and Paterson, New York has finally turned the corner in creating a functional, bipartisan State government.

The State Senate's Republican majority, which I am honored to be among the leadership of, has worked with Governor Cuomo to give taxpayers what you deserve - a functional, effective, and bi-partisan government.

This year, we:

-Ended the job killing MTA payroll tax for thousands of Hudson Valley small businesses;

 Enacted a long-sought after Property Tax Cap plan;
 Closed a $10 billion deficit Governor Paterson left behind when he retired from office;

 Enacted ethics reform to stop corruption;
 Cut income taxes, effective January 1, 2012 for middle class New Yorkers;

 -Enacted a new law to provide insurance coverage for those who have children with autism; and -Directed millions of dollars for flood control aid one of the priorities I fought hardest for. Throughout the year, I met with hundreds of groups in Albany and across Delaware, Orange, Sullivan, and Ulster Counties. We participated in ceremonies marking the ten year anniversary of 9/11, and we celebrated with hope as soldiers returned safely from the Middle East. I know the economics of the times and partisan gridlock in Washington are challenging many fami-

As we move into 2012, I am optimistic that the economy can grow, and that Washington will get its act together, just like New York State government finally has.

In 2012, you can count on me to continue to provide independent representation in the Senate working in a bi-partisan way to meet the needs of our State.

Our Senate District offices are in Delhi (607 746 6675); Middletown (845 344 3311); and Albany (518 455 3181). Please feel free to call or email if there is any matter involving State government you feel I may be able to assist with.

Happy and Healthy New Year,

JOHN J. BONACIC State Senator

The Blue Hill Lodge in Claryville celebrates the New Year.

Dear Editor.

Regardless, if you celebrate the New Year by by listening to Guy Lombardo's swinging orchestra, or dance to rock-music, or stay home and watch 'the Ball' drop at Times Square, there is a certain excitement and hope, that all your unrealized dreams will finally come true. If such enters the realm of uncertainty or wishful thinking, a glass or two of cham-paign will wipe all your doubts and troubles away, especially when served by Irena, Blue Hill Lodge's beautiful proprietor, which in many ways matches its elegant decor.

I really do believe that the restaurant business is more than feeding a hungry stomach; it is more so a demonstration of human values. This, the owners of the Blue Hill Lodge have adopted in their heart. I truly believe that it is not the art of pleasing the customer by condescending niceties, but to treat them with respect and courtesy, if so deserved. That's why I do not miss an opportunity to visit Irena and Frank, at their new Community Center in Claryville.

Their hospitality is to be lauded, especially, when one is greeted with a glass of champagne on New Year's Night, and an honest smile. Such, for sure, will leave a memorable spot in your heart. Surely, times are difficult today, but that shouldn't be an excuse not to enjoy and participate in our local economy. After all, before we succumb to the sob-stories on television, it would be thousand times better to go for a hike in the brisk winter air, and have a warm cup of chocolate at the Blue Hill Lodge, then to lament over things you have little control of. So, spend a few hours at a place that you and your friends can be proud of. How many establishments can provide what the Blue Hill Lodge Community Center has to offer? What a chance to start a meaningful New Year.

Sincerely, Gerhard B. Henke Grahamsville, NY

Governor Cuomo (From Pg. 12)

 Create an All-Crimes DNA Database: To better protect New Yorkers and improve the state's criminal justice system, Governor Cuomo announced that he will propose legislation to create a databank to obtain DNA from all convicted criminal defendants that are found guilty of any felony or Penal Law misdemeanor. Currently, DNA is only collected from those convicted of less than half the crimes on the books in New York. The DNA databank as it currently exists has provided leads in over 2,700 convictions and led to 27 exonerations of the wrongfully accused. Under the legislation the Governor will propose, DNA will be key to exonerating the innocent, convicting the guilty, and protecting New Yorkers in a fair and cost-effective way.

-Establish a Tax Reform and Fairness Commission: Continuing efforts that began at the end of 2011 to reform the state tax code to boost job creation and improve fairness, Governor Cuomo announced the creation of the Tax Reform and Fairness Commission to propose additional, long-term changes to corporate, sales, and personal income tax systems, and to find ways to close tax loopholes, promote efficiency in administration, improve New York's business climate, and enhance collection as well as enforcement.

-Implement Campaign Finance Reform: Governor Cuomo called for comprehensive reform of the state's campaign finance system to make sure that all New Yorkers have an equal voice in the political process. New York ranks 48th in the nation in voter turnout and a smaller percentage of New York residents contribute to candidates to state office than anywhere else in the nation. The Governor called for a better campaign finance system that system that includes matched contributions and lower contribution limits, and increase enforcement at the Board of Elections.

 Create an Office for New Americans: To ensure that New York remains a land of opportunity for all, Governor Cuomo announced that his administration will create an Office of New Americans to assist legal permanent residents who come to New York State. The office will provide a variety of services, including helping those with highskills training and experience obtain the licenses and credentials they need to earn their way; helping those with limited formal education receive access to adult education and job training; and helping new legal permanent residents navigate the path to citizenship. It will also encourage entrepreneurship and take steps to protect new Americans as they transition to full participation in New York's communities.

- Train Leaders for a New New York: To help address the state's human capital crisis, Governor Cuomo announced that his administration will launch the New New York Leaders Initiative to create opportunities for the state's next generation to dedicate their careers to public service. The first component of the initiative, the Student Intern Program, will assign students to a particular branch of government to provide hands-on experience for interns to interact with government leaders and policy makers. The second component, the Empire State Fellows Program, will be a full-time leadership training program that will prepare the next generation of talented professionals who are members of underrepresented groups for careers as state policy makers. The New NY Leaders Initiative is designed to renew the connection between young people and the state and ensure that state government is diverse, talented, and prepared to lead the way for decades to come.

- Protect Reproductive Rights: To continue to vigorously protect a woman's right to choose, Governor Cuomo pledged to fight for passage of the Reproductive Health Act. The Act protects the fundamental right of reproductive freedom and ensures that the rights of individuals to make difficult and personal health care decisions are preserved.

Statement from Attorney General Schneiderman on the State of the State Address

ALBANY -- Attorney General Eric T. Schneiderman today issued the following statement regarding Governor Andrew M. Cuomo's State of the State address:

"Our state faces tough choices in the year ahead to rebuild trust in government, grow our economy and protect consumers.
