If you See Something Nice... Say It!

Thank you to all the employees at Liberty Tractor Supply who made sure the little chicks and ducklings were safe during the power outage on Friday night. Employees volunteered to take the little babies home and keep them safe and warm! - from an employee at Tractor Supply.

We have had many, many 'thank you's' to the road crews, the people working on the power lines and phone lines. Thank You! We can't say 'thank you' too often to our road crews – local, county and state. They have done a great job keeping the roads open throughout this storm – and for that matter – throughout the winter season. The 'thank you's' came from numerous local residents who realize that keeping the roads open meant that in an emergency, proper help could get through and it allowed the crews working on the lines to get through, too!

Sundowners, et al are still looking for the owner of the black and white dog who has been traveling the area for the past month or so. The dog is surviving on food that is being left out for him/her. It is the hope of all that eventually the dog will begin to trust and allow someone to get close enough to be able leash it and bring it to a safe place and ultimately reunite him/her with its owner or find a happy home. Thank you to all those who are caring for the dog, especially this past weekend, through the storm. As Grace said on Facebook, "We have a great community!"

Good things are happening all over! Good things make good stories. We love good stories and look forward to spreading good news!

This Week's Awesome Story!

A picture is usually worth a thousand words. This past weekend's snow storm – two words describe it well– extremeimpressive. It was wondrously beautiful and at the same time, formidably fearsome. Many may still be without power and phones by the time this week's Townsman will be published.

SC Manager Extends State of Emergency for Southern Sullivan County Shelters Remained Open Countywide; Power Outages Remained Widespread

Monticello, NY - As of Sunday evening, Sullivan County Manager Joshua Potosek extended a State of Emergency for the towns of Forestburgh, Highland, Lumberland and Tusten in southern Sullivan County effective until 6:00 P.M. Monday, March 5, 2018, due to significant ongoing impacts from Friday's nor'easter.

Extending the State of Emergency in these locations ensures not only the safety of residents but County, State and utility workers out there responding to a multitude of challenges," said Potosek. "This blizzard smacked the County hard, and it is paramount that we restore power and transportation as soon as possible.

Many streets and roads remained closed in these areas, mostly due to wires and limbs.

"If you come across downed or entangled wires, DO NOT touch them or attempt o remove trees and branches surrounding them," advised Sullivan County Public Safety Commissioner Rick Sauer. "You not only could endanger yourself, but you could also make it more difficult for utility crews to complete their critical work." (Contd. Pg. 3)

Jennifer Davidson of Liberty Volunteers for SUNY Oswego's Alternative Winter Break

Jennifer F. Davidson of Liberty, a junior majoring in information science at SUNY Oswego, took part in the college's 2017-18 Alternative Winter Break service program. Davidson volunteered with Habitat for Humanity in Omaha, Nebraska, working to build simple, decent, affordable homes in partnership with local families.

SUNY Oswego's Office of Community Services offers Oswego students a variety of opportunities to volunteer and travel during Alternative Breaks in spring and winter. Ranging from international to domestic to local trips, these breaks allow students to explore while volunteering.

Other students volunteered in December-January at Habitat for Humanity in Omaha, Nebraska; Project Lazarus in New Orleans, Louisiana, for people living with HIV or AIDS; and building homes in Elizabethtown, Kentucky.

...Today's History...

March 12, 1948 - The Town of Neversink has announced that it has received from New York City a proposed agreement relative to the layof the sewer system in Grahamsville. Included in the proposal is a provision for a sewage disposal plant to be located across from the Chestnut Creek on the west side of Red Brook in what is know as the Glen. The sewer will begin at the L. Clark property in Unionville and serve all the properties between that and the Union Free School

Fire District makes report: The formation of the Grahamsville Fire District was conceived by a few local citizens who were impressed by the low cost of war surplus equipment made available to governmental agencies. With the cooperation of the Neversink Town Board, some of these persons temporarily provided the necessary funds for a new 300 gallon min. front mounted pump and a 250 gallon booster tank. On October 18, 1946, the Town Board appointed five commissioners and a treasurer. The district has a radius of approximately two miles from the fire house to the furthermost property lines. Additional equipment and organization of a fire company was accomplished in late 1946 and early 1947. The memberships at the present time is 53 members.

1958 - Sullivan County's hopes and efforts for the location here of a proposed ski center for the Catskill area apparently dimmed when Albany reports stated that the joint legislative committee had rejected Sullivan's Slawson Peak site.

It is fortunate that the Class of '58 is the largest senior class yet at Tri Valley, for it seems that there is a great deal of planning and preparation to be done for their forthcoming production, "Cheaper by the Dozen"

An investigation into kickbacks on highway purchases in Ulster County spilled over into Sullivan and adjoining counties at the end of last week when State Investigations Commissioner Reuter was authorized to extend his inquiry from Ulster into Sullivan and eight other counties in the Hudson Valley. 1968 - The League of Women Voters will hold an organizational meeting of a Sullivan County chapter. All women in the area who are interested in joining are cordially invited. The soloists from Tri Valley who participated in the NYS Music Appreciation contest held in Roscoe came home with eight "A" ratings and one "B". They were Louis Boncek, Alfred Curry, Eileen Fuller, Jay Ganz, Walter Garigliano, Marcia Hermann, Teresa Martorana, Gary Robinson and JoAnn Walker.

1978 - A meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Daniel Pierce Library was held. Discussions were held on replacing or fixing the flagstone walk, replacing the furnace and building an overhang over the front porch to eliminate the bad icing on the roof and front steps. Also the possibility of installing a light in the front area of the library.

A Looking Back article states that fifty years ago Will Vandermark moved his sawmill from Yeagerville to his farm in Montela. Earl Sheeley started March 1st carrying milk from Grahamsville to Ellenville. 100 years ago - high winds a few days ago moved the wagon house of John Aldrich off its foundation. Also, the Delaware and Hudson Coal Company was selling coal at $1.85 per ton!

> 100 National Guard Members and 30 Vehicles Deployed to the Hudson Valley

The governor deployed 100 members of the New York National Guard as well as senior administration officials to communities throughout the Hudson Valley to assist with storm recovery and power restoration operations. The National Guard deployment began Sunday afternoon with 100 members and 30 vehicles out of Camp Smith in Westchester County. They will provide officials to assist county and local officials with efforts ranging from debris clearance to traffic control. Additionally, administration officials are currently on site helping lead recovery efforts in the four hardest hit counties including New York Power Authority Regional Operations Superintendent Mark Olig and Kimberly Harriman, Senior VP of Public & Regulatory Affairs in Sullivan County. The New York State Emergency Operations Center remains open to further support local and state partners during recovery operations.

Over the weekend there were more than 270,000 customers without power as a result of the storm. New York's utilities had a total of 4,070 in-house workers and contractors working on storm restoration efforts. This total includes resources obtained through mutual assistance. Con Edison has 445 line and tree workers on hand, plus 15 additional contractors; Central Hudson has 300 line and tree workers on hand, plus 50 additional contractors; PSEG Long Island has 705 line and tree workers, including 300 FEMA contractors, along with 110 additional contractors; National Grid has 1,200 line and tree workers on hand, NYSEG and RG&E have 905 line and tree workers on hand, plus 100 additional contractors and O&R has 240 line and tree workers on hand.

Additionally, the New York State Power Authority deployed its transmission team to Central Hudson to help fix their 69 KV sub transmission system and 31 line workers and 13 bucket trucks from its municipal utility customers are headed to Central Hudson. Additionally, NYPA is activating its contract with Michaels, its utility contractor, to send up to 200 line workers from Wisconsin and Iowa to help with restoration efforts.

A Round About Tri-Valley

Carol Furman

Sincere sympathy to the family and friends of Grace "Skipper" Bowers of Divine Corners. Skipper passed away on February 22nd at the age of 85. Skipper, retired for many years, taught in the Elementary School at Tri-Valley and was well liked by all of the students and staff. She was indeed a pleasure to work with! Rest in peace, Continued wishes for a speedy recovery go out to Tom Nash who is still recuperating from surgery at the Adult Care Center in Liberty.

Good wishes also go out to Fred Hufnagel who, I hear, suffered a mishap while snowmobiling.

Spring is definitely on the way! The male red-wing blackbirds are back, I saw geese flying north, the Eureka eagle is setting, our pussy willows are in bloom and, I saw a large flock of robins in the field in front of the house.

Pete and I and a friend went to Ricke Lens in Napanoch for lunch this past week. As I looked around the restaurant, I counted about 20 diners, and much to my surprise, I realized that more than half of them were from the Town of Neversink! Ricke Lens is a nice place to eat, the meals are very good and reasonably priced. Wouldn't it be nice if there was a place like Ricke Lens in the Town of Neversink? I remember years ago, and I mean years ago, Pete and I and the kids use to go to Finches Restaurant for lunch after church each Sunday. For those who don't know, Finches was a lovely family restaurant, and was located by the blinker light in Grahamsville. The building, and what was the restaurant, is now home to the law office belonging to Bill Brenner. That building, which is actually the "gateway" to Grahamsville, was always beautifully kept by the Finches.

Risking by Patty Hansen
Two seeds lay side by side in the fertile spring soil.
The first seed said, "I want to grow! I want to send my roots deep into the soil beneath me, and thrust my sprouts through the earth's crust above me... I want to furl my tender buds like banners to announce the arrival of spring.. .1 want to feel the warmth of the sun on my face and the blessing of the morning dew on my petals!" And so she

The second seed said, "I am afraid. If I send my roots into the ground below, I don't know what I will encounter in the dark. If I push my way through the hard soil above me I may damage my delicate sprouts.. .what if I let my buds open and a snail tries to eat them? And if I were to open my blossoms, a small child may pull me from the ground. No, it is much better for me to wait until it is safe." And so she waited.

A yard hen scratching around in the early spring ground for food found the waiting seed and promptly ate it.
MORAL OF THE STORY: Those of us who refuse to risk and grow get swallowed up by life.

Words of Wisdom: : Maturity begins to grow when you can sense your concern for others outweighing your concern for yourself. (John MacNoughton)

Kate Dale Kelly Traveling on a Mission Trip to Honduras

(From Pg. 1) This organization began 23 years ago, when Rev. Richard Donahue from Boston was sent to Honduras for 3 years as the pastor of the Cathedral parish in Juticalpa. His 3 year stint turned into 20 plus years and the Olancho Aid Foundation was born. Presently, Olancho Aid Foundation operates four schools: Escuelita Nazareth, a special needs school; Centro Basico Santa Clara (primary bilingual), Institute Bilingue Santa Clara (middle), El Institute Cardenal Rodriguez, a Spanish-language high school. While on the trip, we will assist in medical clinics, visit schools and orphanages.

Please take this journey with Kate by supporting her with prayers, monetary contributions or the needed supplies. This year the team is focusing on children's vitamins and dental supplies (toothbrushes and toothpaste) as well as Prenatal vitamins for the pregnant women in the villages. We will continue our work with Living Waters, which is the Olancho Aid Foundation's clean water project with a goal of improving health and quality of life through community integrated water filtration systems. We are also seeking monetary donations to assist in food distribution to the poorest communities in the Juticalpa area. Checks can be made out to Olancho Aid Foundation. All donations can be sent to P.O. Box 482 Neversink, NY 12765. If you would like more information about our trip or the organization you can visit www.olanchoaid.org or contact Kate at 845-985-0141. Thank you for all of your support.

SC Manager Extends State of Emergency for Southern Sullivan County Shelters Remained Open Countywide; Power Outages Remained Widespread

(From Pg. 1) The emergency declaration banned travel on County and local roads in the areas of Forestburgh, Glen Spey, Pond Eddy, Eldred, Yulan, Barryville and Narrowsburg. This prohibition did not apply to vehicles engaged in road maintenance due to the storm or those traveling to or from their jobs in relation to these duties, along with medical and healthcare personnel, public employees designated as essential personnel, utility operators and repair personnel, and volunteers or employees of non-profit organizations providing emergency assistance associated with the storm.

As a result of the ongoing impacts, the following school districts remained closed on Monday. As of 4 p.m. on Sunday, that list of closures included: Eldred Fallsburg; Sullivan County BOCES; Monticello; Sullivan West; Liberty; and Port Jervis

Many warming centers remained open to the public throughout Monticello, Liberty, Highland, Tusten, Youngsville, Wurtsboro, Lake Huntington, Mamakating, Forestburgh and Glen Spey. Dry ice was Wurtsboro, available at some of the centers.

Additionally, the Woodbourne Firehouse on Route 52 and the Deerpark Town Hall in Huguenot distributed a supply of dry ice and water.

Governor Andrew Cuomo declared a State of Emergency for Sullivan County on the state level. Representatives from the Governor's Office, NYS Dept. of Homeland Security and Emergency Services, New York Power Authority, NYS Dept. of Transportation, State Police and the New York National Guard have been deployed to the Sullivan County Emergency Operations Center in Swan Lake. They are working closely with County and local officials on recovery efforts and to facilitate in the coordination of the response from the utility companies.

Numerous mutual aid crews have been deployed, from as far away as Texas and Canada, to speed the restoration of services.

Please check the Sullivan County website www.co.sullivan.ny.us and Facebook page www.facebook.com/sullivancountygov for updates, and if power is lost, please tune into the local radio stations.

Nature Column - Linda Comando

A tribute to the memory of all of the Townsman ladies that we have lost and loved so much... Peggy DeWire, Avril Pappa, Joan Hall, Polly Hill, Joyce Lockhart and Jean Helthaler.

Is Spring Really Almost Here?.

I was so happy to read Carol Furman's column last Thursday and equally as happy to read Carol La Monda's column on Sunday night as we had just gotten our power back! Like Carol L., until we got the candles lit, the fire going and the new generator hooked up, it was not especially the same 'light and lovely feeling that spring is in the air' we felt on Wednesday!

Reading Carol F's column before the storm - Geese flying north, robins and pussy willows – but seeing redwinged blackbirds I remembered what Peggy wrote a few years back, "I saw a robin but it wasn't spring. I found peepers but it still wasn't spring. Then I heard a Redwing blackbird singing O-ka-lee down by the pond and it was spring!" All the signs of spring were as lovely as last Wednesday! Especially the sighting of he Redwing Blackbird!

You will recognize the calls of the Red-winged Blackbird. The male's song, accompanied by a display of his red shoulder patches is a scratchy oak-a-lee. The his red shoulder patches, is a scratchy oak-a-lee. The female also sings, typically a scolding chatter chit chit chit chit chit cheer with a high slurred whistle, teer-teerteerr-eeee.

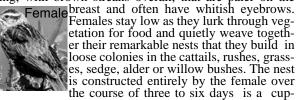

The stocky, broad-shouldered red-winged blackbird has a slender, conical bill and a medium-length tail. They are often defined by their hump-backed silhouette while perched.

The common name for the Red-winged Blackbird is taken from the mainly black adult male's distinctive red shoulder patches, or "epaulets", which are visible when the male bird is flying. Male Male Red-winged Blackbirds do everything they can to get noticed as they sit on high perches and sing all day long. They often sit with their tails slightly flared.

The glossy-black males' can puff up or hide their scarlet-and-yellow shoulder patches depending on how confident they feel.

The females are more subdued and have a muted coloring, with brown streaks overall, that are paler on the

the course of three to six days is a cup-shaped basket of grasses, sedge, and mosses, lined with mud, and bound to surrounding grasses or branches.

Red-winged Blackbirds are polygynous, with territorial males defending up to 10 females. However, females frequently copulate with males other than their social mate and often lay clutches of mixed paternity. Pairs raise two or three clutches per season, in a new nest for each clutch. A clutch consists of three or four, and rarely five, eggs that are oval, smooth, slightly glossy, and measure about 1 3/4 in. They are pale bluish green, marked with brown, purple, and/or black, with most markings around the larger end of the egg. The eggs are incubated by the female alone, and hatch in 11 to 12 days. Red-winged Blackbirds are blind and without feathers when hatched, but are ready to leave the nest 11-14 days after hatching. The young birds resemble the female, but are paler below and have buff feather fringes.

Red-winged Blackbirds aggressively defend their territory from other animals and frequently attack much larger birds. Males have been known to swoop at humans who encroach upon their nesting territory during breeding season.

Since nest predation is common, several adaptations have evolved in this species. Group nesting is one such trait which reduces the risk of individual attacks from preying enemies by increasing the number of alert parents.

And now it is Sunday night. The storm is over and we now are among those who are fortunate and have their power back. Winter isn't over yet! Is it possible the Redwinged Blackbirds were among those wintering over or were they among the hearty males returning to find their prime piece of Catskill Mountain real estate? Despite the winter weather conditions I am still holding in my mind – the song of the Red-winged Blackbird suggests spring is near! In fact, Spring will arrive in less than two weeks!

Illegal Holdings Mysterious Book Report No. 324

by John Dwaine McKenna

Serendipity is the ability to make fortunate discoveries by accident . . . which is what happened here at the MBR when our mailbox, (P.O. Box 2406, Colorado Springs, CO 80901) yielded up an unsolicited new publication from a small independent press in Seattle, Washington, which brought a unique new character and a superb writer to our attention.

Illegal Holdings, (Coffeetown Press, PB, $14.95, 228 pages, ISBN 978-1-60381-591-8) by Michael Niemann, features a fraud investigator from the United Nations Office of Internal Oversight Services named Valentin Vermeulen. In this, the third book of the series, he's sent to Maputo, Mozambique, (Naw, me either, but if you think of the African continent as a clockface, it's down in the five o'clock position, by the Indian Ocean) where he's going to audit a NGO by the name of Global Alternatives - the not-for-profit, Non Governmental Organization that's been set up and funded by a hedge fund billionaire named Vincent Portallis to revolutionize development aid - to see if they're spending their UN grant money as promised. It's a boring, ho-hum assignment to the far reaches of the world . . . made brighter only by the fact that his globe-trotting lover Tessa, will be there at the same time, reporting on foreign land acquisitions in Africa. But as soon as he hits town, Vermeulen discovers a five-million dollar discrepancy in the accounts of Global Alternatives local partner Nossa Terra, who claims that the money . . . supposedly transferred from GA to them . . . was never received. Vermeulen at first gets excuses - never saw, never got, never before and the like - which sets his alarm bells to ringing at full tilt. When the chief accountant and defacto second in command at Nossa Terra disappears on the following day, the case for his guilt seems evident to everyone. But soon after his body washes up on the beach, and there's no doubt he's been murdered. It's only the first act in a chain of violence and criminality that Vermeulen is powerless to stop, as he digs in and desperately tries to solve an increasingly complex series of crimes and evermore vicious events before he, or Tessa, or both of them are killed. Valentin Vermeulen is a hero you can believe in, an ordinary, brave and honest man, who's doing an almost impossible job in the toughest of places. He's a character you'll like, and maybe even love, and definitely want to read more of!

Sullivan County's Time Traveler

For the first few years of John Conway's life, Route 17 ran right past his Rock Hill home - as did all the Borscht

'Especially on Fridays and Sundays, you couldn't get out of our driveway," he re-members, more with fondness than frustration.

Sullivan County Historian John Conway, right, discusses a recent guided tour of Fort Delaware in Narrowsburg with his fellow colonial-era tour guide Gary Cochrane.

But like everything in life, things changed, and the opening of the new Quickway - relocating 17 to a four-lane superhighway - turned tion of "Old 17," known Hill Rock Drive, into a concretepaved deadend.

"It became our play-ground," he says, smiling at the thought. "It was just a great place to grow up." John's father ensured some of that free time was also spent amidst the pages of history books, pointing his son to definitive tomes like James Eldridge Quinlan's "History of Sullivan County" and Alf Evers' "The Catskills: From Wilderness to Woodstock."

"My dad was a big history buff and an avid reader. He always encouraged me to compile my own library," says John. "Our conversations at the dinner table revolved around history, so it was kind of a natural thing for me."
By the 1980s, that affinity for history and nostalgia had evolved into a call-in show on WSUL called "The Brunch Break." Part of that featured his recollections of "a boy coming of age amidst the bungalows" - and suddenly he was hearing from all sorts of folks with interesting tales of Sullivan County's days gone by.

"It became apparent very early on that people had this thirst for history - local his-tory," John affirms.

His beloved newspaper column, "Retrospect," which debuted in 1987, both quenched and deepened that thirst, evidenced by the fact it continues to be published today.
"I once told someone that this is 'Indiana Jones without the rats," John chuckles. "There is so much left to explore. I still find stuff that excites me!"

He shares that enthusiasm not just in print but via classes at SUNY Sullivan, programs at the County Museum and other local venues, and on air occasionally all under the title of County Historian, a mantle he's now worn for 25 years as of this month.

"The last couple of years, I've done more than 50 speaking engagements annually," John relates, on top of hundreds more throughout his tenure as Historian. "I've also written sev-en books about the County's history.'

also written sev-en books about the County's history."
(Plus one on trivia, his other passion.)

Virtually none of that, though, would have become reality without John's wife, Debra, an accomplished author and history buff herself.

"She certainly aided in getting me my column at the paper, to get me the position as Coun-ty Historian -- in fact, the late County Clerk Joe Purcell approached her about my interest because they had a good relationship from stories she had done about him and his pro-jects, and she was very friendly with Barbara, his wife," John recalls. recalls.

"The fact that she has shared my passion for history and been involved in so much of what I have done as Historian has made it so much more enjoyable," he nods. She has been my muse, my inspiration, and my best friend over the years.

Two more books from John are coming soon - muchanticipated compilations of his "Retrospect" columns, which will contain some of his favorite finds.

'I'm constantly amazed at how the County has had connections to so many great things," he notes, pointing out, for example, that 19th century Monticello resident Daniel Bennett St. John played a role in the founding of the New York Times. "Those are the kinds of things that excite me.

The future of Sullivan County, however, remains just as exciting for him. Indeed, he be-lieves the County is beginning yet another momentous chapter in its more than 200-year history, based on a timeline he researched and created that illustrates a cyclical progres-sion in the region's tourism climate every 25 years or so. Such knowledge of the past is what sustained his optimism during the dark years of the recent recession.

"I'd tell people that it's important to know we're not facing downturns for the first time," he explains. "When the economy collapses, we reinvent ourselves."

That may be happening again.

"The great thing to me about the casino is not that it's somehow going to re-create the Golden Age of the resorts here," John remarks, "but the realization that decades ago, there was once just one hotel in Sullivan County, and we know what grew from that.

Make the trip back with John Conway

Sullivan County Historian John Conway is excited to announce he will be collabo-rating with two not-for-profits, The Delaware Com-pany (which he helped found) and the Hurleyville Maker's Lab, to once again offer a six-week "History of Sullivan County" course for the public.

The classes will run from 6-7:30 p.m. for six consecutive Monday evenings beginning April 9 and ending

"The material for this class is brand new...so we are calling this the 'History of Sulli-van County Part II'," John explains. "Whether or not you have already taken my sixweek course, or even my three-credit class at SUNY Sullivan back in the day, this will NOT be repetitive for you. And even if you have never taken one of my courses and know little or nothing about Sullivan County history,

The Olive Jar - By Carol LaMonda

Modern Pioneer Woman

A Nor'easter tore through here yesterday. We had plenty of warning so I, like everyone else in the country, ran to the gas station and to the supermarket. I am sure I could live for six month on the stuff in the pantry and the unidentified frozen bricks in the spare freezer in the garage. (I am always confident that I will remember what leftover stuff I froze, but somehow, when it comes to defrosting, it is a gamble whether the reddish item is beef stew or spaghetti sauce.)

So I was ready. Sure enough, the lights blinked, and everything went off. We have a generator, but I realized I do not know how to start it, so I had to wait for my husband to return.

The woodstove was going, so all I had to do is feed it wood conveniently stacked along side it. I located all my candles and had them ready. I never buy the same scent, so when lit, they smelled like a potpourri of pine trees, Christmas cookies, cinnamon and assorted flowers.

I had sausage and peppers already cooked to be zapped in the microwave, if Bruce starts the generator, or to be heated on top of the woodstove.

I even had a good book, not on the Kindle, to finish. I was cozy in my little home as the wind howled and the trees shook and the snow fell with fury. All good for about an hour. That was when I realized how dependent I was on cable. No television; no internet; no phone. I was in Triple-Play withdrawal. I was bored. Sad to say, I require the companionship of someone, breathing or cyber, to talk to. Being a yenta, I also felt left out of the world news, the local gossip, and stock market bad news. No Candy Crush or FaceBook. I came to the realization that I was technologically addicted.

When power returned twelve hours later, I rejoiced to find out that the wifi signal came on with the light. I realized that I am not the rugged stuff of pioneer woman, but I have great admiration for those "unplugged" ancestors that lived just a century ago.

The Program Will Provide and Install Specialized Smoke Alarms For Families
With Hearing Impaired Children

Kingston, NY - Ulster County Executive Mike Hein is pleased to announce the Ulster County Smoke Alarm Installation Initiative, which provides free installation of specialized Silent Call smoke detectors to families with hearing impaired children. For those with severe hearing impairments traditional smoke alarms which rely on sound do not work, however, Silent Call smoke detectors transmit a signal within a 100-foot radius, using vibration to alert the child if a fire occurs. The project is the result of a partnership between County Executive Mike Hein and the New York State Association of Fire Chiefs (NYSAFC) to reduce fire-risk and injury and help ensure the safety of some of the County's most vulnerable populations. The Ulster County Department of Emergency Management implemented the project and collaborated with Ulster-BOCES to distribute the smoke detectors. The NYSAFC's has provided a limited number of the smoke detectors, but the County Executive is committed to providing funding to ensure that families with children who have severe hearing impairment can

Michael P. Hein, Ulster County Executive

"As a parent, I urge every Ulster County resident to make sure they have a working smoke alarm at home and for families with children who have a hearing impairment, to ensure they have these specialized smoke detectors," said County Executive Hein. "These units have additional components to wake the child and alert them of a fire and can potentially make all the difference between life and death. The evidence is clear that having a working smoke detector greatly increases one's ability to survive a fire and this program makes sure they are available for everyone."

Tammy Schaeffer, Parent of two children who received specialized smoke detectors

"This is an amazing program for the community, especially for my children who are both legally deaf and rely on their cochlear implants, but do not wear them at night," said Tammy Schaeffer a Highland mother who received two of the Silent Call smoke detector systems. "Now, I am comforted that in case of a fire my children have smoke detectors that can alert them to the danger."

Area Residents Among Hardest Hit by Winter Storm

Area residents, especially in Sullivan County were among the hardest hit by the coastal storm this past weekend. Repair crews continued to work on Monday to restore power for customers in Sullivan, Ulster and Orange counties, giving an estimate that some customers may not have power until Thursday night. .

On Saturday, the Governor announced the deployment of an initial 100 National Guard members and 30 vehicles out of Camp Smith in Westchester County to assist state, county and local officials with recovery efforts.

"We are deploying the National Guard and senior officials to ramp up recovery efforts and ensure the thousands of New Yorkers impacted by this storm are getting the help they need," Governor Cuomo said. "Some travel restrictions and advisories remain in effect, and I urge drivers to stay off the roads so that the National Guard, first responders and utility workers can assist those that need help.

As of this writing on Monday, the total deployment stood at 200. Crews from the New York State Department of Transportation have also been dispatched to assist localities with storm cleanup and debris removal as well as support for utility restoration operations. In the Southern Tier and Hudson Valley regions, the Department has deployed more than 1,000 operators and supervisors, 388 large dump trucks, 23 chippers, three tree crew bucket trucks, 12 signal trucks, and 91 loaders.

They will be assisting state officials to assist county and local officials with efforts ranging from debris clearance to traffic control. Additionally, administration officials are currently on site helping lead recovery efforts in the four hardest hit counties -- Director of State Operations Cathy Calhoun has been deployed to Dutchess County, Homeland Security and Emergency Services Commissioner Roger Parrino is in Putnam County, Public Service Commission Chair John Rhodes is in Westchester County and New York Power Authority Regional Operations Superintendent Mark Olig and Kimberly Harriman, Senior VP of Public & Regulatory Affairs in Sullivan County. The New York State Emergency Operations Center remains open to further support local and state partners during recovery operations.

"In the wake of this week's destructive winter storm, I am declaring a state of emergency across Dutchess, Putnam, Sullivan and Westchester Counties and am doubling the deployment of National Guard members assisting with recovery operations," Governor Cuomo said. "This is an all-hands-on-deck situation and the people of the Hudson Valley should know that New York State is doing everything we can to restore power and help them recover as quickly as possible."

This complex winter storm left more than 360,000 New Yorkers without power at its height as a result of dangerously strong winds, rain and snow that took down trees, branches, and power lines. Sustained winds of over 30 mph, with gusts of 50 mph to over 60 mph, were recorded in the lower Hudson Valley.

New York's utilities have a total of 4,070 in-house workers and contractors working on storm restoration efforts. This total includes resources obtained through mutual assistance. Con Edison has 445 line and tree workers on hand, plus 15 additional contractors; Central Hudson has 300 line and tree workers on hand, plus 50 additional contractors; PSEG Long Island has 705 line and tree workers, including 300 FEMA contractors, along with 110 additional contractors; National Grid has 1,200 line and tree workers on hand, NYSEG and RG&E have 905 line and tree workers on hand, plus 100 additional contractors and O&R has 240 line and tree workers on hand.

Additionally, the New York State Power Authority has deployed its transmission team to Central Hudson to help fix their 69 KV sub transmission system and 31 line workers and 13 bucket trucks from its municipal utility customers are headed to Central Hudson. Additionally, NYPA is activating its contract with Michaels, its utility contractor, to send up to 200 line workers from Wisconsin and Iowa to help with restoration efforts.

Appearing on C-SPAN to Discuss School Safety and Firearm Policy
On Wednesday morning,

I joined C-SPAN's Washington Journal program to discuss school safety and firearm policy. School safety and reducing incidents of gun violence are urgent issues. I responded to questions from callers from around the nation. Watch the full interview on C-SPAN's website. Treasury Needs to Weigh in on Proposed Tax Changes

I wrote to the U.S. Department of the Treasury inquiring how the federal government would treat proposed tax changes currently under consideration by the Governor and the state legislature. The proposals under consideration in Albany are part of an effort to minimize the limitation on deductibility of state and local taxes enacted as part of U.S. tax reform last December. I've heard from constituents who were curious how these proposed changes could affect their financial planning. Read a copy of the letter in this Albany Times Union story.

Action to Combat Online Sex Trafficking

This week, the House passed, with my support, legislation that would strengthen criminal and civil tools to combat online sex trafficking. Currently, law enforcement does not have the ability to effectively hold websites account-able for not aggressively fighting online sex trafficking on their platforms. Additionally, current criminal penalties are not strong enough in punishing those who facilitate sex trafficking. H.R. 1865 is a big step in the right direction to fight the deplorable practice of sex trafficking.

Lifelong Dedication to the Veteran Community

Bob Becker honorably served our country as a member of the Marine Corps and has continued to serve his community as a lifelong advocate for the causes he believes in.

On Sunday, I had the pleasure of attending a ceremony recognizing Mr. Becker for being named the recipient of the Four Chaplains Brotherhood Award. This designation recognizes those special individuals who serve the community without regard to the ethnicity, values, or beliefs of others. It is a true testament to Mr. Becker's patriotism and steadfast commitment to improving the lives of veterans.

I met with a wide variety of advocates and constituents in Washington this week. Here are just some of the meetings that occurred in our office:

Combating Rare Diseases

I met with local advocates to discuss efforts that would incentivize research and development of treatments and cures for rare diseases. The Rare Disease Legislative Caucus is a group of members who work in detail on legislation that addresses rare diseases. I'm excited to join the caucus and work on these issues.

United Postmasters and Managers of America

Representatives from Ulster County with the United Postmasters and Managers of America visited the office to discuss postal reform. We discussed Postal Service management and employee issues, as well as efforts to promote financial stability and innovation in the delivery of mail and packages.

American Alliance of Museums

I met with local representatives from the American Alliance of Museums to discuss funding and education policy. The 19th District boasts a particularly large number of museums and cultural institutions, which are integral to the region's economy. I support funding for the competitive grant programs which have benefited numerous museums throughout our district.

School-Based Health Centers and their Role

Combating the Opioid Epidemic

School based health centers (SBHCs) are an important component of New York's network of healthcare providers. In fact, New York has the largest network of rural SBHCs in the country, operated by the Bassett Health System in Cooperstown. These SBHCs primarily serve underserved communities, and are increasingly important in Otsego, Delaware and Schoharie counties. These health centers also play a crucial role in the provision of primary care services to school children, along with dental screenings and mental health services.

On Wednesday, I sponsored a briefing at the Capitol held by the national organization of school-based health centers. We were honored to listen to a presentation by Dr. Chris Kjolhede, co-director of the Bassett school-based health centers, on the opioid crisis affecting rural parts of New York State. I am a big fan of what Bassett is doing and am working to expand opportunities so that other health providers can be encouraged to team up with local school districts to provide these services.

Regulatory Burdens Hamper Access to Credit

New York's credit unions are an irreplaceable source of loan financing and access to capital. Their financing is important for the many thousands of credit union members throughout NY19. I was happy to meet with local area credit unions to discuss federal regulatory issues and the general state of the upstate economy.

First-in-the-Nation State Capital Fund Supports 14 Construction, Renovation, and Expansion Projects at New York Shelters

Projects Will Enhance Animal Care and Health and Help Ensure Adoptions for New York's Dogs and Cats Governor Andrew M. Cuomo announced 14 animal shelters and humane societies across the state have been awarded funding through the New York State Companion Animal Capital Fund totaling nearly $5 million. The Companion Animal Capital Fund is the first state-funded program in the nation to support critical improvement projects at New York shelters. It allows these organizations to make significant updates to their facilities to enhance animal care and health, and help ensure adoptions for dogs and cats.

'New York's animal shelters perform critical services in communities across this great state," Governor Cuomo said. "This funding will better equip these facilities and help improve quality care, as these shelters continue to strive to find dogs and cats under their care a permanent, loving home."

"The test of whether a society is civilized and just is how it cares for its most vulnerable," said Lieutenant Governor Kathy Hochul. "This funding will help animal shelters across the state care for dogs and cats while they embark on new beginnings."

Funded in the 2017-18 New York State Budget, the Companion Animal Capital Fund provides matching grants to offset the costs associated with capital projects such as renovating dog kennels, improving medical facilities, or building more efficient shelters to reduce the cost of operation. Funds can also be used to construct, renovate rehable or acquire buildings or equipment needed to vate, rehab, or acquire buildings or equipment needed to house, treat, and care for sheltered dogs and cats.

Competitive grants were awarded to shelters based on need and the readiness of projects.

The following shelters in the Mid-Hudson Valley are receiving an award:

• Humane Society of Middletown (Middletown, Orange County):$439,000 for the construction of an addition and renovation of the current shelter. The project includes the construction of a new wing with quarantine and treatment areas and expanded animal housing areas to increase capacity.

• SPCA of Westchester (Briarcliff Manor, Westchester and a new animal County):$500,000 for the construction of a new animal shelter to replace the current structure. The project will consolidate several buildings into a single, modern facility to modernize care.

Governor Cuomo Encourages Craft Beverage Manufacturers to take Advantage of the Combined Craft Manufacturing License

Governor Andrew M. Cuomo encourages New York craft beverage manufacturers to take advantage of the combined craft manufacturing license. The combined craft license was created on September 7, 2016, as part of Governor Cuomo's legislation to modernize New York's Alcoholic Beverage Control Law, which included expanded Sunday hour sales at bars, restaurants and tasting rooms by changing the statewide opening hours from noon to 10 am. The combined license merges craft manufacturing licenses into one application, cutting fees and reducing burdensome paperwork for small businesses. To date, 33 craft beverage manufacturers have taken advantage of this license and are now licensed to produce multiple types of craft beverages in a single location.

"With the enormous growth in New York State's craft beverage industry, this license cuts red tape and allows these businesses to continue to expand and diversify their products," Governor Cuomo said. "New York will continue to work to foster an environment where these businesses have the ability to grow and create jobs in every corner of this great state.

At the 2012 Wine, Beer and Spirits Summit, Governor Cuomo ended the State Liquor Authority's policy prohibiting multiple manufacturing licenses at the same location. The Governor recognized the additional burdens this policy placed, for example, on a small winery that wanted to also make whiskey - including building a separate facility. However, businesses holding multiple licenses were still required to file paperwork and renewals for each separate license.

The combined craft manufacturing license combines two or more manufacturing licenses into one application and requires only one $400 filing fee to reduce paperwork and costs. The combined license also saves applicants 10 pages of paperwork per additional license. The combined license may combine two or more of the following licenses: farm brewery, micro-brewery, farm cidery, farm winery, micro distillery, micro-rectifier and farm distillery.

The first combined craft manufacturer license was issued in December 2016, with a total of 33 manufacturers having received the combined license since enactment. While the State Liquor Authority is issuing approximately two of these licenses per month, there are still 104 current craft beverage manufacturers that hold multiple licenses that have not yet taken advantage of this new license.

State Liquor Authority Chairman Vincent Bradley said, "We see more and more craft beverage manufacturers producing all different types of alcoholic beverages that should be taking advantage of the combined craft license. Not only does the license save manufacturers money, it saves them time they can devote to their craft."

Under the leadership of Governor Cuomo, New York is now home to over 700 farm wineries, breweries, distilleries and cideries. The number of farm wineries in New York has increased by more than 75 percent, from 195 in 2011 to 348 today. The number of farm distilleries also grew from just 10 in 2011 to 123 today. Two new licenses have been created since 2012, including the Farm Brewery license in 2013 and the Farm Cidery license in 2014, which has led to the establishment of 202 farm breweries and 42 farm cidery businesses.

Diversity is What Makes Sullivan County Vibrant! Sullivan Renaissance Multicultural Outreach

[Ferndale, NY] The Sullivan Renaissance Multicultural Outreach Program embraces and celebrates the vibrancy of diverse communities throughout Sullivan County, extending an inclusive approach to all residents and seasonal visitors. The program encourages communities to showcase their valuable contributions as volunteers in Sullivan Renaissance's beautification projects.

To foster community outreach, Sullivan Renaissance established an African-American Advisory Board, A Bilingual Advisory Committee and a Community Mitzvah Award Program. The Advisory Committees' members donate their time to work alongside members of the community to inspire inclusion of youth, senior and those whose primary language is other than English. The Bilingual Advisory Committee serve as interpreters in Spanish, French, Greek, Italian and Yiddish.

Grants are also designed to underscore the value of community engagement. The Community Mitzvah Award engages seasonal residents in a beautification competition to raise the awareness about the importance of property appearance in the larger community. The deadline for the Community Mitzvah Award is March 1. Neighborhood Outreach Grants provide assistance to organizations and municipalities with beautification and community development projects in multicultural residential neighborhoods, as well as outreach to non-English speaking communities. Property Enhancement Grants are available for improving the exterior appearance of seasonal camps and bungalow colonies. Both the Neighborhood Outreach Grants and Property Enhancement Grants have rolling deadlines through October 1, 2018.

Sullivan Renaissance is seeking a Multicultural Program Manager to identify opportunities and implement initiatives that increase the participation of multicultural communities in Sullivan Renaissance's grant programs. This position has a specific focus on outreach and efforts to revitalize neighborhoods in multicultural areas and to engage individuals in Sullivan Renaissance's beautification and community development programs by removing language and other barriers, and building trust.

This is a full-time position with a salary commensurate with experience. For more information, call (845) 295-2445, or apply on Facebook @sullivanrenaissance.
