LOCH SHELDRAKE: Sullivan BOCES and SUNY Sullivan held a ribbon cutting today for the Career & Technical Education Public Safety classrooms at SUNY Sullivan. This partnership will provide more comprehensive programming for the young men and women of the county.

Jay Quaintance, President of SUNY Sullivan, welcomed local politicians, educators, and students, and discussed the ever-changing educational landscape of the county. "Our partnership is a prime example of that change. It shows how we are working together to provide high-quality educational experiences and a seamless pathway from high school to college," said Quaintance.

According to Robert Dufour, Ed. D, District Superintendent at Sullivan BOCES, "We are excited about our partnership with SUNY Sullivan and the opportunities it affords our students. What makes this partnership so special is the relationships the students are forming with SUNY Sullivan's Criminal Justice Program. Our students not only get to immerse themselves into college life and experience what college is all about, they are able to see that SUNY Sullivan is an ideal institution to continue their education."

Assemblywoman Aileen Gunther expressed how proud she was of the partnership between SUNY Sullivan and Sullivan BOCES. "I know how important the public safety program is and the college setting will enhance each student's learning experience," said Gunther. She closed with a statement to the students-"I look forward to seeing you in a uniform someday." (Contd. Pg. 4)

Eighth graders Avena Watkis and Rain Shokralla enjoying the vegan gingerbread squares during their lunch break in the FJSHS Cafeteria

Food Service Director and member of the Wellness Committee Ms. Dara Smith had specially baked vegan gingerbread squares prepared by the High School Food Services team and apple cider from Eger's Hudson Valley Farms. The "secret" ingredient of the gingerbread was black beans that added to the sweetness and rich color. The students, with very few exceptions, thought they were fantastic. (Contd. Pg. 4)

ON THE FRONT BURNER: But now after you have known God, or rather are known by God, how is it that you turn again to the weak and beggarly elements, to which you desire again to be in bondage? Galatians 4:9

OBITUARIES

Joan L. Moore of Neversink, NY, entered into eternal rest on October 14, 2018, surrounded by her family. Joan was the daughter of the late Annabel (Williams) Smith and Vernon R. Smith of Port Ewen, NY. She was predeceased by her husband Fred Allen Moore.

Joan had a perseverance that colored her life and personality. Although she had only recently adopted the phrase "Captain of her own ship", you can see that strength of purpose throughout her life. Her strength and faith carried her through a myriad of life events that may have felled a lesser woman. Joan was also hardworking and loyal. She began work at the age of 14, eventually to work 35 years at Channel Masters in Ellenville, NY. She completed her career at the Maxon Company in Neversink, NY after she retired at the age of 73. Her belief in hard work has been ingrained in her children and grandchildren. It was such a prevailing belief-you could not help but be inspired to reach the same level of commitment. Her family and friends remember her as being generous to a fault saying "she would give you the coat off her own back." Not only was she giving but she always fought for the underdog and if she felt someone needed a family she would quickly volunteer.

Joan believed that having a sense of humor could get you through most situations in life. Her humor came through most in her storytelling. She loved to share with everyone who would sit a moment to listen to the past. She loved to laugh and her children and grandchildren were a great source of joy-and if you really wanted to see something special you would wait to tell the punchline right as she was taking a sip of strawberry daiquiri.

Joan was a dedicated member of the Neversink Ladies Auxiliary, Ulster Heights United Methodist Church and the Bethel Seniors.

She is survived and will be missed dearly by her children: Darlene Wachter and her husband Allen, Fred Moore, Jr. and his wife Susan and William Moore and his wife Kim; her grandchildren: Greg (Alissa), Michelle, Johnny (Katie Frost), Lacey (Damian), Fred III (Paige), Josh (Diane), Brittney (Chris Smith) and Bruce (Natalia Cruz); greatgrandchildren: Chrissy, Fred IV, Johnathan and Anthony; as well as her best friend and travel partner Mary Caughey. She is predeceased by her siblings Elizabeth Barbarini and Raymond Smith.

Joan's family would like to send their heartfelt thanks to the hospice workers who helped them and Joan during her time of need.

In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made in Joan's memory to Hospice of Orange and Sullivan Counties, 800 Stonybrook Ct., Newburgh, NY 12550.

A funeral service was held at the Colonial Memorial Funeral Home on Thursday, October 18th. Burial followed at Grahamsville Rural Cemetery.

Davs of Yore... Today's History

Going back a bit to 1928 - On October 18th, 1928 over 100 cars drove into Grahamsville to celebrate the 150th Anniversary of the Battle of Chestnut Woods monument as part of an historical tour. The monument was dedicated in 1920 to Lieutenant Graham's, Robert Temple and Adam Ambler.

According to one account. Dr. Earl Bates of Cornell University spoke at the celebration praising the leadership of Lieutenant John Graham of Mamakating and the courage of the settlers. Lieutenant John Graham was killed during the skirmish with Joseph Brant's Indians. The Battle of Chestnut Woods was fought on September 5, 1778 (over 240 years ago!) near the site of the Chestnut Woods monument which is nearby in the present day property where the Eureka Restaurant was located.

Does anyone beside me get annoyed at all of the political campaign ads on TV and the numerous political phone calls this time of year? I find that political campaigns are so negative and discouraging that I just want the election to be over and done with. It seems to me that many of the candidates for election dwell on the negatives of their opponents instead of stating their own platforms. And what about those political signs all around town? Will the people who put them up remember to remove them following the election? I bet not! The Tri-Valley PTO will be holding their annual "Trunk or Treat" on the afternoon of Saturday, October 27th Plan to decorate your trunk and have some goodies available for the youngsters. I am sure that Halloween wouldn't be Halloween without pumpkins and jack -o'-lanterns. Did you know that pumpkins have been grown in North America for 5,000 years? Ideally, around here, if your want to plant pumpkin seeds, they should be planted between the last week of May and the middle of June. That makes the growing season some-where between 90 and 120 days. Pumpkins, when eaten, are a great source of beta-carotene and antioxidants. It is said that eating pumpkins can help prevent eye damage, can have a positive impact on blood pressure, and some studies have shown that it can even reduce some cancer risks. If you are competitive, you can also try to grow a large pumpkin for a "weigh off. In 2016, the biggest pumpkin ever grown weighed 2,624.6 pounds!

Of course, Halloween also has it's share of scary tales. You've all heard about the "headless horseman", but have you heard the tales regarding the ghost of Abraham Lincoln which is often believed to be present in the Lincoln Bedroom at the White House? Parapsychologists define ghosts as "people who died with unfinished business". Lincoln certainly fits the bill. The Confederacy had surrendered only five days before Lincoln's assassination, but the United States was still in disarray. Lincoln's plans for repairing the nation were cut short by his murder. As a result, many residents and visitors claim and are convinced that they have seen Lincoln's ghost roaming the halls near the Lincoln Bedroom at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. So, take Lincoln, who some say believed in the occult and was murdered in office with much unfinished business, and you have a recipe for a famous ghost story! Happy Halloween!

Along with the performance, Jacobs will talk a bit about his experience performing in the legendary Catskills hotels. He will be joined by keyboardist Peter Tomlinson.

Nature Column - Linda Comando

Crows or Ravens?

How do you tell whether that black bird you will be displaying for Halloween is a crow or a raven Ravens and crows are closely related and are of the same family - Corvidae. These two species overlap widely throughout North America, and they look quite similar. But with a bit of practice, you can tell them apart. Ravens are larger, the size of a red-tailed hawk.

Ravens often travel in pairs, while crows are seen in larger groups. Also, watch the bird's tail as it flies overhead. The crow's tail feathers are basically the same length, so when the bird spreads its tail, it opens like a fan. Ravens, however, have longer middle feathers in their tails, so their tail appears wedge-shaped when open. Listen closely to the birds' calls. Crows give a cawing sound. But ravens produce a lower croaking sound.

Also, a crow flaps along with wingtips turned up. A raven soars on wings held horizontal. Ravens soar more than crows. If you see a "crow' soaring for more than a few seconds, check it a second time. Crows never do the somersault in flight that Ravens often do. Ravens are longer necked in flight than crows.

Another overall distinguishing feature is feathers. A crow's are round-tipped and make a smooth body cover-ing whereas a raven's are pointed and lie jaggedly, ending up around the neck in a spiky mane called a "ruff

Ravens have an exceptionally heavy and powerful black beak. Crows have a proportionately smaller bill. Both crows and ravens belong in the Corvid family (which includes jays and magpies), Neither the crow nor the raven can be considered bird brains. In fact, they are among the most adaptable and intelligent birds

Ravens have the intelligence to solve problems. A German researcher Bernd Heinrich who was studying ravens hung a piece of meat on a string from a platform perch. Some crows and other birds attacked it without success. However, one raven surveyed the tempting scene for an hour before solving the problem. As recorded by Herr Heinrich, it flew to the perch carrying the meat in its beak, put its foot on the string and with each pull kept it secured. Finally success and dinner!

Native American and Eskimo legends tell how ravens trail sick moose by hovering and calling - knowing they'll soon feast on a gut pile.

No wonder that ravens are totems and "Trickster" spirits in some legends and folklore.

In Norse mythology Huginn and Muninn are two ravens that fly around the world watching everything that goes on and then they fly back to the shoulders of Odin and whisper the deeds of the mortals into his ears. A flag that was commonly used by Norse seafarers, including Leif Ericsson was the Raven Banner. In 1845 after Edgar Allen Poe's poem "The Raven" was first published a new generation of fears and anxiety of ravens was ushered in that survives to this day as portrayed in Alfred Hitchcock's "The Birds"

Crows and ravens have been given a bad rap as deatheating evil black creatures, but they are actually some of the most intelligent birds even capable of mimicking human voice like parrots. Also, they aren't just carrion eaters as some may think. Much of their diet is devoted to berries, fruit, and insects.

Crows and Ravens have been part of Halloween folklore long before Hitchcock or Poe. They were often depicted with witches - who in a sense, got a bad rap for their exceptional skills, too.

Should you decide that Ravens and Crows will be the theme of your Halloween decorations this year, you won't have to look far - you can even get them in the dollar stores! And if you are still among the superstitious, and don't want either of the black birds as part of your holiday fare, you might want to hang a wreath of dried apples or heather above your front door!

Some Die Nameless Mysterious Book Report No. 351

by John Dwaine McKenna

Every single human being on the planet has a past; the deeds, events and situations that have shaped us and made us into the persons we are today. Some of those experiences were happy and good . . . others, not so great . . . and a few of them we do our absolute best to put out of our minds forever. But sometimes, no matter how honest an effort, the past just won't stay in the rear-view mirror. Instead, it drives up, cruises on through, then cuts in front and runs you off of the big highway of life. (What a metaphor!) That's what happens to an ex-airborne army ranger named Ray Devlin in a propulsive new thriller that'll keep you nailed to the page long after you were supposed to be off somewhere, doing something else. Some Die Nameless, (Mulholland Books/ Little Brown/ Hachette, $26.00, 337 pages, ISBN 978-0-316-44020-2) by Wallace Stroby, begins in Florida, where fifty-four year old Ray Devlin is semi-retired, living on his boat and off the grid. He takes odd jobs in construction to make ends meet, keeps to himself and does his best to put his past as a mercenary soldier behind him. He's seen action all over the world as a sergeant in a tight-knit group of commandos, working for a governmental contracting company run by an elusive man named Kemper. But after Rays last job in South America left him severely wounded, he recuperated, then walked away from life as a soldier of fortune and hasn't seen, or been in touch with any of his old comrades-in-arms for twenty years. He's surprised then, when one of the handful of men who went with him on that last fateful mission, a trooper under Devlins command named Bell, turns up at the south Florida marina where Ray's docked, looking to reconnect. In less time than it takes to drink a bottle of beer however, the two men are locked in a fight to the death.

At the same time, up in Philadelphia, the discovery of a decomposing corpse in an abandoned house triggers a young, ambitious reporters instincts for a major story, even though the failing newspaper she's working for doesn't want her to pursue it. She and Devlin are forced to team up as the two cases unfold, becoming evermore intertwined, sinister and deadly, with hitman and killers lurking on every page. If thrillers are your thing, you don't want to miss Some Die Nameless, because Wallace Stroby is one of the hottest crime fiction writers working today. He's fast becoming a national treasure, as well as one of the MBRs personal favorites!

Inaugural Wellness Day at Big Hit in Fallsburg

(From Pg. 1) At the end of the school day, junior high stu-dents enjoyed the crisp air on the school Cross Country Trail for a Nature Walk. Team coaches and members of the Wellness Committee supervised the event.

From the smiles of the students devouring the healthy snacks and their rosy cheeks while walking along the trail, the verdict was a successful Wellness Day for the Fallsburg Junior High School. Athletic Director and Chair of the Wellness Committee Ms. Suzanne Lendzian was very pleased with everyone's efforts to support the well-being of the School District.

Fallsburg Central Schools Say No to Bullying with Color Run

Near freezing temperatures and cold rain did not deter well over 160 parents, children, teachers, students, custodians, other staff and administration from participating in the Second Annual Color Our Community with Kindness Run at Fallsburg High School on Saturday, October 13, 2018. The team of organizers headed by Benjamin Cosor Elementary School teacher Ms. Heather Clausen, and FCSD Athletic Director Ms. Suzanne Lendzian helped make the day a great success. Over eighty people registered for the 5K run/walk to combat bullying and promote positive behavior in FCSD. Registration fee was $15 or $20 per person dependent on the date of application.

The Color Splash FUNDrun by Get Active Fundraising was designed for all ages and fitness abilities. Before the walk/run, participants doused each other with packets of safe coloring. Along the route, participants passed through vibrant color zones, making it a "total color immersion." Additionally, each pre-registered participant was provided with a single powder color packet that was thrown in the air at the final color celebration at the finish line. "Rather than sell goods, we wanted to engage the entire student body in a fitness initiative that aims to encourage a life-long healthy way of living," says the BCES PBIS/Olweus Club. Each participant received a t-shirt, race bib and individual color packate bib, and individual color packets.

The list of supporting organizations for the event was voluminous and included the following sports teams with their coaches Varsity Girls' Soccer, Cross Country, Volleyball, Leo's Club, and Cheerleaders that ran the Snack Shack; FCSD Wellness Committee Members; Lisa McAdoo as DJ and for design of volunteer t-shirts. A big shout-out goes out to the Building and Grounds Staff for clearing the 5K course and clean up with the help of the dozens of volunteers. Finally, organizers wish to thank special volunteers Jane Tingley, Brian Garber, Megan Ollive, Aleta Lymon, Veronica Serrano, Nicole Rizzo, Nicole Hayden, Jennie Kohler, Sarah Satz, SueAnn Boyd (Cornell Cooperative Extension), David Mellan and Veroter Mayor Kristen Mever.

The money raised will help fund future events and sup-port the District's efforts to reward those students that remain "Referral Free" for the entire school year. By the end of the day, it was clear that everyone felt a strong boost of school spirit that set a warm tone for the school

THE TOWNSMAN

The Olive Jar- By Carol LaMonda Orange

Orange shouts, "Look at me! I'm over here!" We usually reserve orange for danger and safety signs, but Mother Nature uses the color liberally in the fall. Leaves demand we look at them to appreciate the beauty around us in autumn. Pumpkins remind us that the harvest is the last opportunity to stock up for winter. Jack-O-Lanterns encourage us to have some fun at Halloween and keep the tradition of costumes and decoration as little ones ring doorbells seeking a treat. Orange transitions us from the marigolds of summer to the chrysanthemums of fall. It is our last hurrah before the bright crayons are put away for another season that requires only browns and grays.

The fall foliage was not spectacular this season. It probably got mixed messages from Mother Nature who gave us eighty degree temperatures last week and frost this week. houseplants are all safely inside, and the firewood stacked to

Here is a poem about Orange:

Orange is gregarious; Orange never whispers; It shouts and screams, In outrageous sunrises and sunsets, Flaunting and spotlighting Fall's wardrobe. It out-shines, in vivid hues of mums, The pale petals of summer. Orange asks us to slow down, Like a traffic light Changing from green lawns

Sullivan Chamber Orchestra Presents Music in the Key of Love

(Monticello) If you ask a musician why they program spe-cific pieces and in a particular order, you'll often hear a variety of responses; "This music is special to me," "The story is incredible," "The composition is genius!" A sentiment generally expressed is how the key signatures of each piece flow together. This is the foundation of the Sullivan County Chamber Orchestra's (SCCO) October chamber music series, "Music in the Key of Love."

described by German poet and composer, Christian Schubart (translated by Rita Steblin) as "The key of love, of devotion, of intimate conversation with God." After Beethoven you will hear the music of a young Dvo ak; his String Quintet in G Major. Schubart characterized this key as "Everything rustic, idyllic and lyrical, every calm and satisfied passion, every tender gratitude for true friendship and faithful love,--in a word every gentle and peaceful emotion of the heart is correctly expressed by this key." The program will conclude with Brahms' iconic masterwork, String Sextet in B-flat Major. The key of B-flat is described by Schubart as "Cheerful love, clear conscience, hope, and aspiration for a better world." Collectively the keys of the program spell out an E-flat major chord, which brings us full circle to the feeling evoked at the top of the program with Beethoven; The Key of Love.

SCCO is thrilled to invite the incomparable violinist, Daniel Phillips (Orion Quartet) to share his love of music with Akiko Hosoi, Chelsea Wimmer, Jay Chieh-Fan Yiu, Philo Keun-Ha Lee, and SCCO Artistic Director Andrew Trombley for two performances of Beethoven, Dvorak, and Brahms

Several Spots are Available for School-age Child Care at Tri-Valley Elementary School

Claryville - Several spots have recently opened up in the School-age Child Care pro-gram at Tri-Valley Elementary School for students in Kindergarten to sixth grade. The program is held in the elementary school immedi-ately following dismissal until 5:45 p.m. Children may be bussed home afterwards for a small additional fee. The program is run by Frost Valley YMCA, a local leader in youth development.

Frost Valley's School-age Child Care gives children values-driven programming in a safe, nurturing, and supportive environment. Children will enjoy a healthy snack, age-specific activities, and structured programs such as sports, crafts, games, and more. The cost of the program is $13 per day per child.

Children enrolled in the program will also receive help with homework or reading from college-educated staff members, allowing parents to spend more family time with their children in the evenings. Participation in afterschool programs has many positive benefits for children.

"Quality school-age child care is crucial for a healthy community," says Jessie Emmons, Director of Community Programs for Frost Valley. "Frost Valley's School-age Child Care program at Tri-Valley gives children a nurturing environment where they receive help with homework and enjoy physical and creative play. It also gives working parents peace of mind, knowing their children are being well cared for.

A limited number of spots are still available. Families who are interested in registering their child for the Frost Valley School-age Child Care Program at Tri-Valley Elementary School are strongly encouraged to call 845-985-2291 right away to ensure their child's spot.

Ulster County and Delaware & Ulster Railroad Announce Partnership to Re-establish Tourism Railroad Service to Highmount in Town of Shandaken

Highmount, NY - Ulster County Executive Michael P. Hein today announced that Ulster County has granted a five year permit to the not-for-profit Delaware & Ulster Railroad ("D&U Railroad") allowing the excursion railroad organization to re-establish tourism railroad operations in western Ulster County for the first time in nearly two decades. The Arkville-based D&U Railroad ended tourism passenger service to Highmount in 2001 to focus on operations between Arkville and Roxbury in Delaware County. After months of discussion, Ulster County has issued a permit to the D&U Railroad to re-establish service to County property in Highmount, enabling the railroad to extend its operating track length to nearly 20 miles. Michael P. Hein, Ulster County Executive

We continue to work hard to implement the County Legislature's segmented rail and trail policy for the County-owned Ulster & Delaware Railroad Corridor. As part of the unanimously-adopted compromise plan that we were able to achieve together, the County has now issued a permit to allow the D&U Railroad to restore tourism excursion trains to Highmount near Belleayre Ski Center," noted Ulster County Executive Mike Hein. "The County is excited to reconnect this western segment of the County-owned railroad line in Shandaken to the increasingly successful D&U Railroad tourism trains, and the restored Highmount station area will also connect to the County's future rail trail project in the Town of Shandaken. We appreciate that the D&U Railroad is willing and able to invest in upgrading its track from Arkville to Highmount to restore tourism train service to western Ulster County, which operated from the mid-1980's until 2001

Wes Coates, General Manager of the D&U Railroad stated, "The Delaware & Ulster Railroad is committed to building a strong-partnership with Ulster County to restore rail service to Highmount and Belleayre, and we want to thank County Executive Hein and the County Legislature for working with us to bring our railroad to Ulster County. We are proud to be part of strategy to grow tourism and the economy along the Catskill Mountains Scenic Byway. This important partnership puts the 'Ulster' back in our operation and will support our plans to attract more visitors to the western Catskills. (Contd. Pg. 11)

Chamber Music at St. Andrew's Presents The Baroque Aria Ensemble & Harpsichordist Kenneth Cooper in Orpheus and Eurydice - an Operatic Exploriation of the Famous Legend

On Saturday, October 27 at 7:30 pm (new time), Chamber Music at St. Andrew's in South Fallsburg offers a unique operatic exploration of the legend of Orpheus and Eurydice, a tragic love story. One of the most famous Greek myths, it has inspired many famed painters, such as Peter Paul Rubens and Nicolas Poussin, and many operas, songs and plays have been composed to honor these two great lovers who tragically lost the chance to enjoy their love on earth. The story of Orpheus and Eurydice has been told in many versions, including the Brazilian film, Black Orpheus (1959 Oscar winner). The earliest account comes from Ibycus (circa 530 BC), a Greek lyric poet. The evening will feature vocal and instrumental music on this theme by JS Bach, Henry Purcell, Frideric Handel, Georg Philipp Telemann, Christoph Willibald Gluck, Jacques Offenbach, Johann Gottlieb Graun, Riccardo Broschi and JC Bach performed by The Baroque Aria Ensemble with Kenneth Cooper conducting from the harpsichord.

St. Andrew's Episcopal Church is located at 5277 State Route 42 in South Fallsburg. The concert is free, but Reservations are required; email pcfriedman27@gmail.com (preferred) or call: 845-292-8967 BAROQUE ARIA ENSEMBLE

The Scene Too By Jane Harrison

This past Wednesday was the last Open Mic until the Spring at HEARTBEAT, the Music Hall of Grahamsville. I always refer to it this way since I REALLY like the music hall aspect of the name. It was also the first real cold snap of the season which kept all but the heartiest souls both audience and musicians away. Still, those who did attend, were treated to Grahamsville's own ALBI, one of the The region's and one of my favorite performers. highlight, for me, was the endearing story he told of when he was a youngster David Trestyn, founder of the Music Hall, gave him an amp and a Strat...and that he didn't even know how to play! David must have recognized something in him that he, himself, had not even entertained! And for those who aren't familiar with the nicknames 'amp' and 'Strat', the first refers to an amplifier and 'Strat' is the common reference among musicians for the Stratocaster electric guitar manufactured by Fender.

Friday was a bit milder so I ventured out to CABERNET FRANK'S in Parksville. More than any other place around, I always run into people I know here and as far as I knew, it was one of few nights where no music was scheduled. SURPRISE! Earlier this year I discovered a new group KARABAS BARABAS and they were appearing. It's not just their unique sound that set them apart and grabbed my attention. It's the fact that the band has a 'day job' composing and performing children's music. The band lives and works in Brooklyn, and as Pranque told me, any time they have time, they try to book a night here.

This time, they had an opening band LOST BOYS?. Yes, that's the name, including the question mark. This is also a unique band. Also from Brooklyn, they had just finished a tour with their last date the night before in Albany and they too, not only jumped at the chance to open for KARABAS BARABAS but to play at CABERNET FRANK'S, a venue that they had heard so much about. And as usual, a host of Brooklyn-ers of all ages flocked in in support of both bands. LOST BOYS? is sort of RAMONES, and definitely reminiscent of the old CBGBs with incredible energy that had their fans up on their feet dancing.

This week:

Friday: Oct 26: Rockin' good blues, catch the JOHN-NY JULES BAND; Cabernet Frank's 7pm

Saturday: Oct 27: The last of the LIVING HISTO-RY GHOST TOURs at the Old Dutch Church in Kingston. 7pm

Until next time....

However these grants and contributions do not cover all our expenses and we still need to raise additional funds to cover artistic fees. Please make checks out to St. Andrew's Mission and send to PO Box 55, Woodbourne NY 12788. Contributions are taxdeductible.

Ulster County and Delaware & Ulster Railroad Announce Partnership to Re-establish Tourism Railroad Service to Highmount in Town of Shandaken

(From Pg. 9) The five year permit provides the D&U Railroad with a future station area where passengers can access or disembark from the D&U Railroad event and dinner trains. More importantly, the County railroad property provides a much needed "siding run-around," a second set of tracks that will allow the D&U Railroad to move its locomotive engine from one end of the train to the other so the train can be pulled in the opposite direction. In exchange for the use of approximately 930-feet of the County's railroad property, the D&U Railroad will be responsible for upgrades and maintenance of the property adjacent to NYS Route 28 and Galli Curci Road.

The Delaware & Ulster Railroad is part of the Catskill Revitalization Corporation, a not-for-profit economic development organization based in Delaware County that operates special event and dinner trains between Arkville and Roxbury while also owning and maintaining the Catskill Scenic Trail, a nearly 26-mile recreational trail from Hubbell's Corners to Bloomville on the former Ulster & Delaware Railroad, also known as the Catskill Mountain Branch.

In Ulster County, the 38.6-mile long Ulster & Delaware Railroad Corridor currently hosts segmented rail and trail projects consistent with the policy set by the Ulster County Legislature in 2015. These projects include tourism train operations by Catskill Mountain Railroad in the Kingston area and rail bike operations by Rail Explorers in the Phoenicia/ Mt. Tremper area. In addition to these railroad-based operations, the County is also actively converting designated segments of the former rail line to a public recreational trail for hiking, bicycling, running and other non-motorized activities, including at the future Ashokan Rail Trail in the Towns of Olive and Hurley and the Midtown Linear Park in the City of Kingston.

UC Executive Mike Hein Signs Plastic Bag Ban Into Law – Legislative Sponsors Agree to Modifications to Protect Low-Income Families and Provide Public Education Campaign Prior to Enforcement Efforts

Kingston, N.Y. - On Friday Ulster County Executive Mike Hein signed Resolution Number 283 of 2018, adopting a proposed law to ban single-use plastic bags in Ulster County. County Executive Hein was joined for the signing by sponsors of the law - known as "The Bring Your Own Bag Act" as well as several of the environmental groups that have championed the law's passage.

The new law bans covered stores throughout Ulster County from providing single-use plastic carryout bags and requires them to charge $0.05 for each recyclable paper bag provided to customers. The law is set to take effect on July 15th, 2019. Based on input provided by County Executive Hein, the bill's supporters have agreed and have assembled the necessary support to amend the law prior to its effective date to include: a provision that would exempt SNAP (Food Stamps) and WIC recipients from paying the $0.05 fee for recyclable paper bags, and a six-month educational campaign that will begin prior to full enforcement of the law. Full enforcement, including potential fines for viola-tions, is anticipated to begin no later than January 1, 2020.

With this action, Ulster County becomes the thirteenth municipality -and the only County - in New York State to adopt local legislation banning single-use plastic bags as a means of reducing the environmental impacts associated with plastic waste. County Executive Hein and the bill's sponsors anticipate the bill will provide a model for other communities through-out New York State and further amplify local pressure on statewide elect-ed officials to implement a statewide "bring your own bag" law.

Michael P. Hein, Ulster County Executive

"I am proud that Ulster County has become a national leader in protect-ing our environment while simultaneously embracing critical financial pro-tections, and this law is a testament to the hard work and dedication of Legislator Bartels, the Energy and Environment Committee as well as Legislators on both sides of the aisle. I also want to commend the support-ers of this law for embracing critical changes that made a strong and responsible law even better, and I look forward to working together to make this plastic bag ban a reality as we continue to protect our children, our families and our environment for generations to come.'

Tracey Bartels, Ulster County Legislator, District 16 (Gardiner, Shawangunk)

'Every year New Yorkers use more than 20 billion plastic bags and just two weeks ago the UN Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change warned that the world has 12 years to act to prevent catastrophe," said Ulster County Legislator Tracy Bartels. "Today, with this bill Ulster County commits to taking action. This bill is the result of years of diligent effort and its effect will be felt for generations. I am grateful to all who contributed in good faith and worked to reach consensus. I am hopeful that the careful crafting and execution of this legislation will create a model for other municipalities to follow. I am thrilled today to join our County Executive as he signs this bill into law, and I am grateful for his commitment to education and outreach about this matter. I would also like to thank my fellow legislators who have worked so hard over the years to craft responsible legislation that protects our environment." Kathy Nolan, Ulster County Legislator, District 22 (Denning, Hardenburgh, Olive, Shandaken) Hardenburgh, Olive, Shandaken) "The goal of the plastic bag ban is to directly reduce the usage of sin-gle-use plastic bags and shift away from plastics to alternatives that are much less harmful to our health and the environment," said Ulster County Legislator Kathy Nolan. "Bringing this law to fruition involved the dedica-tion of legislators, community groups, waste management experts, and the leadership of County Executive Mike Hein. The attention to detail on this bill makes it likely that it will serve as a model for municipalities and com-munities across New York State."

Paul Gallav. Riverkeeper

"Riverkeeper thanks and congratulates Ulster County Executive Mike Hein and the Ulster County Legislature for crafting this visionary new law, which will cut plastic pollution, beautify our neighborhoods and make the Hudson cleaner and safer for people and wildlife, alike," said Riverkeeper President, Paul Gallay. "Communities across the state and leaders in Albany should look to this new law as a model for their own efforts to promote cleaner and healthier places to live, work and play." Under provisions negotiated by County Executive Hein and agreed to by a majority of the bill's original sponsors, the Legislature will adopt amendments to the bill at a future legislative session. Those amendments provide for an exemption of the $0.05 fee for recyclable paper bags for recip-ients of SNAP (food stamps) and WIC and outline a six-month period during which enforcement of the new law will be delayed as the County performs outreach and education to members of the public and covered stores regarding the law's provisions. Following this education campaign, the law will go into full effect by January 1, 2020. The bill passed in Ulster County differs from less effective measures implemented in other areas, which either impace of so but do not her a location have which either impose a fee but do not ban plastic bags, or simply require plastic bags to be accepted for recy-cling. Ulster County's new law involves a full ban on single-use plastic bags at all covered stores, coupled with a required fee for recyclable paper bags, which is charged to the customer and recorded on their receipt. The hybrid ban-and-charge model is designed to encourage shoppers to bring their own reusable bags. Other locations that have implemented similar hybrid ban-and-charge laws have seen dramatic reductions in plastic bag waste. In addition to reducing plastic pollution and mit-igating the harmful impacts it has on the environment and on human health, the bill's provisions are expected to head off future costs related to plastic production, distribution and disposal as the volume of single-use plastics reaches a tipping point. According to the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation, American retailers spend $4 billion annually to provide single-use plastic bags - a cost that is invariably reflected in the prices that consumers pay at the checkout. Additionally, plastic waste is increasingly responsible for expensive failures of sewage and water treatment plants as well as recycling facilities, where plastic film can interfere with sensitive machinery. Collection, hauling and disposal of plastic waste is a growing challenge that threatens to cause increasing costs for municipalities and private companies alike.

By promoting reusable plastic bags, laws like Ulster County's are designed not only to protect the environment and human health, but also to reduce inefficiency and waste that ends up costing consumers money.

Grahamsville NY Post Office Salutes Emergency First Responders

Grahamsville, NY - Postmaster Andree Rothschild announces the Grahamsville Post Office at 215 Main Street, next door to the Grahamsville Volunteer Fire Department, is saluting emergency first responders by offering a special pictorial postmark on Friday, October 26. Designed by local artist Robert Granito, the pictorial postmark features graphic illustrations of various emergency personnel in action with the words OUR HERO's underneath and the location and date alongside.

Postmaster Rothschild emphasizes the October 26 Grahamsville NY pictorial postmark would make the perfect keepsake when paired with the latest commemorative Honoring First Responders Forever stamp.

Whether responding to a fire, medical emergency, accident or crime, our nation's first responders are on the front lines to apply their knowledge, training and experience. They treat the injured, rescue the endangered, restore safety and order, and save lives. Many respond to emergencies as their full-time occupation; others are highly trained volunteers.

From small townships to the federal government, first responders are found throughout society. Their ranks often include a wide range of law enforcement professionals and public safety personnel, from air marshals and transit police officers to park rangers and fish and game wardens.

If unable to get to the Grahamsville Post Office on Friday, October 26 during regular retail business hours
